STUDENTS ACCUSE YOUTH

Friends of Boy Held in Death Mystery of Marian Lambert Say He Fascinated Many Girls

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Lake county authorities today busied themselves with preparations for the inquest in the death of Marian Frances Lambert, poisoned high school girl, which is to begin Monday at Waukegan.

The prosecution hopes that the evidence taken by Coroner John L. Taylor will establish the State's case against Will H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin student and former Lancaster, Mass., youth, who is being held under a formal charge of murder.

All the close friends of Miss Lambert will be called before the coroner's jury Monday. Chief among the witnesses for the State will be Miss Josephine Davis, Marian Lambert's chum.

Investigation develops that Orpet boasted of his ability to fascinate young women. "Orpet seemed to have a peculiar fascination for girls," said one of the students who rooms at the house where Orpet roomed when he first went to Madison. This student quoted several incidents in support of his declaration.

The vial in which the cyanide was contained which caused the death of Marian Lambert was found, it was admitted today, in the woods near Lake Forest, in which the school girl kept her last tryst with Orpet.

Although efforts were made to conceal this important find, Sheriff Elmer Griffin and State's Attorney E. R. Runyard were overheard saying:

"Have you got that bottle yet, sheriff?"

"Yes," was Griffin's answer.

ABANDON SEARCH.

The search of Helm's woods, where Miss Lambert's body was found, was suddenly abandoned just previous to this conference, and Chief of Police McGuire recalled the detail of men he had kept in the vicinity, going over every inch of ground.

Meanwhile, officers were hard at work gathering in fragments of evidence in their efforts to determine whether Marian Lambert took the poison in the belief that she was to be accommited even in the by Orpet, whether she took it of her own volition in despair, whether she believed the contents of the fatal bottle merely a drug to relieve her condition, or whether the contents of the vial were forced down her throat by

BUSINESS MEN TO AID JAIL 'GRADUATES'

Deer Island "jailbirds," who, like Yum, heretofore have never had a chance, are to have the door of opportunity opened for them.

no interest in their own welfare, nent Boston men, the Penal Institutions Department is soon to establish an employment bureau for men and women freed after serving sentences at Deer Island.

The details are being completed by Deputy Commissioner George H. Sheehan. When discharged, the men and women will be informed that Boston men are interested in their welfare, and that it is up to them to make good. They will be put to work and there will be no watching. If they pass the probationary term, they will be introduced to the citizens to whom they are indebted to their opportunities for betterment. These citizens will then see to it that their advancement is assured.

In case the former prisoners show no interest in their ow nwelfare, they will be dropped, so far as the employment bureau is concerned.

It is stated that the bureau will take care or perhaps as many as 500 prisoners yearly. They will get a chance for a "new start." Several big manufacturers have told the deputy commissioner that they would be glad to co-operate with him.

CITY'S STREETS DISGRACEFUL, SAYS HAGAN

Acting Mayor Hagan today attacked Boston's street conditions, saying the snow and slush not only huort business, but were "deplorable and disgraceful."

"There is no doubt the present condition of the streets hurts business," said the acting mayor. "The slush should have been all cleaned off by this time. Instead you find the slush very deep on many downtown streets.

"In my opinion the way they clean up after snowstorms is not the proper method. Here, the cleaner will shovel up the snow, leaving a layer eight or ten inches deep. The purpose of this is more than I can fatohm unless it be to provide a running surface for the outsiders who drive into the city with pungs. But this should not be; the streets should be cleaned to the bone, and the work should begun immediately after the storm.

"In New York, immediately after the snowfall, the workers clean up the snow by shoveling the snow into piles along the gutters. The middle of the street is as clean as if there had been no storm. Other men come along and clean away the piles, and shortly the snow has entirely disappeared from the principal arteries of traffic.

"Of course it takes money. Boston must spend money to do the same thing. I am sure if the city tried this method once, the citizens would applaud the result and the spending of money to get the streets into condition for traffic would be fully justified. But just now the Boston method of cleaning up after a snowstorm is all wrong, and certainly ought to be changed."

Uprising Among Soldiers in English Forces Reported to Have Cost Number of Lives

Berlin, Feb. 18. — Mutiny against England among the Hindoo troops in Egypt was reported today in the Cologne Gazette in a dispatch from Cairo. The trouble arose, says the newspaper, when a Captain Brown, an Australian, shot two Mohammedan servants for petty mistakes.

The Hindoos who saw the incident killed the captain with bayonets and then the whole regiment mutinied. Twelve officers, including the regimental commander and a major, were said to have been killed.

Other Hindoos sent to quell the mutiny refused to fire on their brothers and it was two hours before the white troops put the mutineers to flight.

U. S. ATTITUDE BIG BARRIER TO KAISER

By International News Service.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Commenting on President Wilson's refusal to acquiesce in Germany's new submarine policy to attack armed merchantmen the Paris Midi says:

"Those who would attribute the sudden depreciation in the German market yesterday to the fall of Erzerum should not forget that the German-American relations still have to be reckoned with. No doubt Russia's victory is of tremendous importance, but it is eclipsed by President Wilson's about-face, for a single important action by the American executive has more weight in the present situation than the capture of a mighty stronghold, with a thousand cannon."

APPEAL BY BAY STATE SENATOR

Lodge, in Vigorous Speech, Cautions the Administration Not to Abandon Its Sea Warfare Policy

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Solemn warning that the United States may be drawn into the war if it acquiesces in the German Admiralty's newly announced submarine policy was delivered on the Senate floor today by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Senator Lodge urged the administration "to stand firm in its determination to uphold the principle of the right of merchantmen to arm for defensive purposes."

"The German Admiralty's avowed intention to torpedo without warning armed enemy merchant vessels after February 29 is revolting to every instinct of humanity, to every principle of law and justice," Senator Lodge declared.

"I cannot believe that the administration thinks for a moment of altering the well-defined position which it took at the outset of the European war, and I believe that it must stand as firmly on this question as it has on the question of embargo," continued the Massachusetts Senator.

"Should it act otherwise it would accept a humiliation and incur a danger of war from which even the boldest and the most unscrupulous would shrink, and therefore such a course as has been discussed in the newspapers seems to be wholly inconceivable."

Abandonment of the principle of right of a merchantman to arm for defence at this stage of the war also would be a distinctly unneutral act, and would place the United States clearly in the position of an ally of Germany, Senator Lodge declared.

"There can be no question," he said, "that any act by a neutral which alters conditions created by the war is an unneutral act and places the neutral on the side of one belligerent or the other. The war, and the war alone, has created conditions under which any change at this time in the attitude which we took officially at the outset of the war in regard to armed merchantmen would be an unneutral act.

"The merchantmen of one belligerent have been swept from the seas. Therefore, if we should abandon all the principles on this subject that we have ever sustained; if we should abandon the rules laid down by Mr. Lansing in his circular of September, 1914, and declare that our ports were closed to armed merchantmen, or that goods and passengers from the United

Lynn Girl, Married on Sick Bed, Rallies and Has Change for Better

Mrs. Thom A. Bailey, the former Miss Lillian Bennett of Lynn, who was married while critically ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Thom A. Bailey, the Lynn society bride, who was married Wednesday night while critically ill with pneumonia, rallied today after being so low yesterday that it was feared she might not last the night through.

It was a night of terrible strain for the household at No. 11 Red Rock street Lynn. At 7 o'clock this morning the bride experienced a turn for the better. The attending physician felt greatly encouraged. The bride's mother, Mrs. William H. Bennett, said later in the day:

Mrs. Bailey was formerly Miss Lillian Bennett, daughter of a leather dealer. Her engagement to Thom A. Bailey of Haverhill was announced last Fall at a Tedesco Club dinner. The wedding was planned for early Summer.

One week ago Miss Bennett was stricken with pneumonia, which became acute. Mr. Bailey hurried to his fiancee's home. Wednesday, when the illness became critical. Mr. Bailey urged that an immediate marriage take place. The sick girl demurred, but finally consented.

A permit to waive the five-day marriage law was obtained. The wedding was performed in the sickroom by the Rev. Flora M. Neagles, pastor of the People's Christain Church of Lynn.

Last Thoughts of Murderer of Anna Aumuller Turned to Mother, to Whom He Sends Good-by

By International News Service.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Hans Schmidt is dead. The unfrocked clergyman who murdered his sweetheart, Anna Aumuller, was put to death in the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison shortly before 6 o'clock this morning.

"I send a hearty good-by to my mother. My last thought is of her. Good-by, all friends."

These were the former clergyman's last words. He showed as much nerve as any man ever executed at Sing Sing. He walked to his death with a firm step, notwithstanding the fact that he had raved all night in his cell. At the chair he asked forgiveness from all he had "offended or scandalized," and in turn forgave all who had offended im.

THREE SHOCKS REQUIRED.

Scarcely had he repeated his last words when Fred Dorner, principal keeper at the prison, who was in charge of the execution, due to the absence of Warden Kirchwey, gave the signal to the electrician. There was a hissing sound. Hans Schmidt's body suddenly stiffened and strained forward against the straps that held him to the chair.

Three shocks were necessary. The first current was turned on at 5:52 o'clock. For one minute and twelve seconds the electricity surged through Schmidt's body. Then the current was turned off.

To all appearances the slayer was

KNOWLEDGE BEST CHAPERONE FOR GIRLS, SAYS ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

KNOWLEDGE is the best chaperone for a young girl, however. The wisely-taught and instructed girl, given right ideals and a common sense education in the ways of the world and the laws of nature, will need no other protection. If you have a daughter, madame, who is just entering the charmed danger zone of early womanhood, talk to her often and intimately on the subject dear to every girl's heart—love, romance, marriage and maternity. Do not for an instant imagine that your daughter is not thinking about the attraction of the sexes, about lovers, about marriage, about maternity. Unless she is an anaemic, and imperfectly developed, she IS thinking of these things. It is as natural as for butterflies to think about sunlight; for bees to seek honey-giving plants, and for birds to mate in the Spring.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox on the Lambert case.

'Mothers at Fault in Tragedy Like This'

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

A few years ago there was a high school in one of the interior towns of America, which had to close its doors at one season, because of the epidemic of immorality which swept through its various classes. The absolute freedom of association which the boy and girl pupils had been allowed, without careful guidance or wise instruction or kind warnings from parents or teachers, had resulted in moral and physical disaster to a large number of young girls. In order to prevent a widespread scandal the school closed its doors on a fictitious pretext; but the real cause was known, however, by the majority of the inhabitants.

"My daughter is seventeen," remarked a fond mother to a friend, but she is like some new-born babe in her innocence. It is really refreshing to hear her talk, and I would not destroy her ignorance of the evils in the world for all the riches of earth."

SECRET ASSOCIATIONS KEPT FROM PARENTS.

Yet the same seventeen-year-old daughter was confiding to a comrade her exciting adventures with men much older on her way to and from high school. An artist had taken her into his studio and posed her for pictures and boldly commented on her perfection of form, and other men had paid her compliments, all which pleased the young miss mightily, and all which she kept secret from her parents.

This precocious miss afterward eloped with a man whose social station was much inferior to her own, and the mother wondered how such a misfortune could have happened to her carefully reared child.

In no other country on the face of the earth are young girls in homes of cultured and well-to-do parents permitted such dangerous liberties as are the rule in America.

The peasants and the outdoor toilers of other lands follow these free-and-easy customs, but people of any position or any degree of culture do not permit their daughters to receive the attentions of men without chaperons.

KNOWLEDGE is the best chaperon for a young girl, however. The wisely taught and instructed girl, given right ideals and a common sense education in the ways of the world and the laws of nature, will need no other protection.

If you have a daughter, madame, who is just entering the charmed danger zone of early womanhood, talk to her often and intimately on the subject dear to every girl's heart — love, romance, marriage and maternity.

"Say to her: 'You are an exquisite and rare piece of human workmanship; your body is a delicate and holy temple wherein God performs His wonders, and you want to keep it beautiful and clean and vital, so that when the marvellous experience of motherhood comes to you, it will not be impaired.'"

A woman's mind and her body are more intimately connected than a man's mind and body. And whatever thoughts, habits or actions you may indulge in today may leave their impress on your children in years to come.

Therefore, invite only such things to lodge in your mind as you are willing to transmit to your offspring. If wifehood and motherhood do not come to you, your own womanhood will still be enriched by right habits of thought.

If any man inoghs at you for not doing what you must hide from your parents or the world, remember he will laugh behind your back if you yield to him.

The mother who talks to her young daughter in this vein will never weep over her shame. Do not for an instant imagine that your daughter is not thinking about the attraction of the sexes, about lovers, about marriage, about maternity. Unless she is an anaemic, and imperfectly developed, she IS thinking of these things. It is as natural as for butterflies to think about sunlight; for bees to seek honey-giving plants, and for birds to mate in the Spring.

MERELY ANIMALS UNLEASHED AND UNFENCED.

This girl who has died so tragically was full of romance and natural young sentiments, which developed into the sex impulse through her too free association with a youth as untaught and ungulded as herself.

Neither the youth nor the girl was by nature corrupt or vicious. They were just young animals, unleashed and unfenced, following nature's impulses.

They had been taught the holy laws which make those impulses sacred and right for human beings. They had not been taught to respect and reverence the sex relations as something high and noble.

No one had talked to them seriously and sweetly on this vastly important subject. Their parents did not imagine they thought about it. It is the universally stupid idea of parents.

But they had thought about it. And from not knowing how to think this awful tragedy resulted.

It may come to your child—to your daughter, your son—any day, madam and sir, unless you are guiding them over the dangerous reef with the searchlight of knowledge.

ARE YOU?

"WARNINGS ARE IN VAIN," IS VIEW OF VIOLA ALLEN

It is a pity that youthful faith should lead to sorrow and death. The first step is ever the fatal one.

The instinction of the young will not prevent the fearful mistakes of extreme youth.

Viola Allen, one of the most famous women of the American stage, drew these reflections from the well of womanly pity that made her great in the historical field. It was the voice of Parthenia, of Cordelia, of Desdemona and of Virginia which spoke.

It was the heart of Glory Quayle and the "Christian," of Dona Dolores of "In the Palace of the King," and of Roma in "The Eternal City" that prompted the speaking.

Her theme was the death of poor little Marian Lambert in the snowy woods near Chicago. From that heart-thrilling story of a young girl's love and trust—and of her death—the great actress today sketched her own little sermon. And who is better qualified to think about the emotions than the woman who became the idol of the people by reason of the deft fashion in which she, in character disguise, played upon the popular heart-strings?

A rehearsal was in progress at the Criterion Theatre, New York. Shakespeare was again knocking at the door of the Syndicate Business Men, demanding a little attention for art. The star left the atmosphere of ghosts, of melancholy princes and of Poor Yoricks to speak of the tragedy under the leaden-laden boughs of the Western forest.

AN OVERWHELMING STORY.

She was quite the charming Viola Allen of her girlhood as she sat in her dressing room and turned her eyes from the make-believe stage of New York to the actual blood and life stage of the Chicago suburb.

"It is overwhelming," she said, as she thought of the tragedy.

"And it is such a pity that a girl so beautiful as the faith and trust of a woman should lead to such consequences.

"It is the first step that is the fatal one. The tragedy of little Marian Lambert did not take place when the deadly poison went to her lips. It did not have its era when the coroner bent over the body and took solemn cognizance of the frost-touched situation.

"Marian Lambert committed her error when she deposited her whole world and wealth of love in the heart back of a young man who was destined to become a defaulter. There lay the error, there is the story of her death. The actual killing was but the scene shifting, the changing of the setting of the play so that the last act might take its logical place in the procession of the story's periods.

"The awful thing of it all is to admit the weakness when one's affections have been misplaced. Her death was the admission of this weakness. It was the proof of this weakness. It was merely the confession that a love dream had vanished.

"The bitter knowledge that you have given everything and nothing has been returned is the tragedy. But there is no use railing against the ordinances of Nature. It is written that with what measure ye mete it can again shall be meted unto you. It is also written that he who liveth by the sword shall perish by the sword. It was only the ancient way of saying that the law of compensation is inexorable. Less careful folk have translated it to read that he who dances must pay the fiddler.

THE WORLD A SCHOOL.

"Under whatever guise of words the idea is clothed it remains the same. If one must make mistakes the price must be paid.

"But nothing is to be gained by preaching these truths. The world is a log schoolhouse, just like the little red schoolhouse of the story books. All of us go to school. It has two classes. One of them is taught by Old Professor Experience. The other is taught by Old Professor Other People's Experience. The first never turned out a bad pupil. The second has never known to graduate one, nor to loose a diploma.

"The world takes his lectures as it takes the errors of other people. It wears no educational clothing not made to order, and not cut to the individual measure. There is no such thing as ready-to-wear experience.

"I do not think that it is wise to lift the curtain and show the entire stage of life to the young. The young will not profit because the lessons are the experiences of others. Innocence is not culpable to no wrong than is the worldly-wise maiden to whom the picture of life has been shown.

"This poor young thing suffered a fate that has been suffered before. She followed a path that had been blazed by many others before her time. It began with the first dawn of the day of sex. It will not end so long as the world is the world.

Girls have loved and trusted and —they have died for love and trust before. They will love and trust and die for love and trust again.

"The warning of a poor, dead body flung by Fate across the easy pathway of pleasure will not deter the next passer that way. We can only see, hear and pity. Our tears may soften the world to some extent, our prayers may serve as the flowers that cover the bier.

"They will not warn and save."

The woman who had as a young actress objected to Ibsen because he bared the weaknesses of humanity, looked with great sympathy at the picture taken from real life by Ibsen. She viewed it as Portia might have done, tempered with the gentle graces of a Juliet.

Declare New Ideals Needed

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 18.—First of all, a girl must have supreme self-control. She must know the unalterable world law of cause and effect and, high above every other thing, must be taught to revere the sanctity of the home. There you have my three cardinal principles for every girl."

Mrs. Walston H. Brown expressed these views today.

"Ever since I learned of the unspeakable tragedy surrounding the death of little eighteen-year-old Marian Lambert," she continued, "I have tried to find some way out, for there must be something that will help other girls whose temptations are no less keen than were those of this little schoolgirl in Chicago."

Mrs. Brown is one of the prominent clubwomen in the city. She is the daughter of the late Robert G. Ingersoll. For many years she has devoted her life to bettering the condition of girls in New York.

"Self-mastery is the fundamental thing," Mrs. Brown asserted, "and that is where a mother's problem starts. Early in life every girl must be taught that high self-esteem which is a part of a perfect poise of manner. She must have the ability to stop and THINK, no matter how fast her impulses may race. That will enable her to face temptation without hesitancy later in life.

"Girls nowadays are dreadfully handicapped by the fact that everything is given a higher value in their eyes than homemaking."

her companion in a frenzy of desire to be rid of her.

While the police were building up the structure of their case, bit by bit, around the college student, the parents of both the cyanide victim and the suspect were frantically proclaiming their belief in the innocence of their children.

"Marian was an innocent girl," sobbed Mrs. Frank Lambert, her mother. "Oh, tell them she was innocent! Tell them everyone knows she was innocent!"

"This story is a terrible thing," Mrs. Frank Orpet, mother of the college boy, moaned, dry-eyed. "My son could not possibly be guilty of such a charge."

But Ralph Dady, State's Attorney, points confidently to the letters written by young Orpet to Marian Lambert, openly discussing their relations, and telling of the medicine he had sent her to enable her to escape the scandal of the consequences of their relations.

ORPET'S EASY CONQUEST.

"Orpet seemed to have a peculiar fascination for young girls," one of the students who roomed at the house where Orpet roomed when he first went to Madison, declared. "Once Orpet made a bet with some of us that he could introduce himself to a young girl, and within an hour could induce her to sit with him on a couch in her parlor. He did introduce himself to the girl, and in about an hour we peeped into the room and saw Orpet and the girl sitting together on the couch like old friends."

Detectives have carefully questioned the cleaner to whom Orpet took the bloodstained shirt when he returned from the poisoning scene at Lake Forest. The cleaner denies that the portion had been burned out, and he remembered no suspicious marks or acid stains on it.

It was definitely established today that Josephine Davis, whom the State considers perhaps its most important witness, is being kept secluded at the residence of Chief of Police McGuire to keep her away from the lawyers hired to clear Orpet.

With the evidence of the witnesses at the coroner's inquest, State's Attorney Dady feels that he will be justified in asking the Grand Jury to indict Orpet.

Washington, Feb. 18.—A scrutiny of the Democratic representation in the Senate indicates the dissent of not more than a half a dozen members of the President's party on the question of confirming the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston to the Supreme Court.

Of the ninety-six members of the Senate, fifty-six are Democratic and forty Republican. It requires forty-nine votes to confirm the nomination. Hence, there is an excess of seven Democratic votes over the number necessary to give Mr. Brandeis a seat on the Supreme Court bench.

His senatorial supporters are confident he will receive a number of Republican votes, particularly of those Senators of Progressive tendencies, and that he will have at least 62 votes, or 13 more than necessary.

Lack of witnesses today halted the investigation by the sub-committee. After two hours of effort to secure witnesses further hearings were postponed until next Thursday.

Austin G. Fox, representing those opposed to the confirmation of Mr. Brandeis, put in a formal appearance today and submitted a letter showing that he was employed by a committee of Bostonians, including President Lowell of Harvard University and Charles Francis Adams. He said he was not prepared to go on, and asked for delay.

He will submit to an executive session of the committee on Tuesday, an outline of all charges against Mr. Brandeis and a list of witnesses. Witnesses will then be summoned for Thursday.

The committee excused Dr. J. P. Lenox, of Washington, who had been summoned as a witness because he said all of his knowledge of Mr. Brandeis was through hearsay.

OPPOSE MINORITY PARTIES PETITION

The petition for representation of minority parties on the polls and on elections boards was opposed before the legislative Committee on Election Laws today by James H. Devlin, assistant corporation counsel for Boston. He said such a law would cost Boston $12,000 annually, that it was unnecessary, that the ballot was sufficiently guarded and there was no sense in interfering with the present election system for sentimental reasons. Representative George M. Worrall of Attleboro and Joseph Borsck argued that fairness to all required minority representation.

MOTIVE IN CASE IS PUZZLE

It seems incredible that a girl of eighteen should have committed suicide because her sweetheart had forsaken her for another. It seems equally incredible that the sweetheart should have killed her in order to be rid of her.

Yet this girl is dead, and the last person known to have been with her was the boy.

So the crime stands, and the very heart of its mystery is the lack of reason why the girl should have committed suicide, or why the boy should have killed her. Which was it, suicide or murder?

By DOROTHY DIX.

The fate of William Orpet, the twenty-year-old college student who is accused of having murdered his schoolgirl sweetheart, lies in a frail glass bottle, and it remains to be seen whether out of it will arise an evil genii to destroy him, as the one came forth from the vial to destroy the fisherman in the old fairy story, or whether a good spirit will arise to set him free.

For the bottle that a drug clerk in Madison, Wis., claims to have sold to Orpet on the day before Marian Lambert was killed is the thin and brittle link that is depended on to connect the boy with the crime.

As the days go on, and facts take the place of rumors, the mystery surrounding the girl's death grows deeper, and the problem of whether she killed herself in a fit of bitter jealousy, or whether she was slain by a lover who had grown weary of her and wanted to be rid of her, becomes a riddle that is harder and harder to solve.

And the strangest part of the whole case is that there seems to have been no real motive, no adequate cause, for either suicide or murder.

It has been established that at the time of her death the girl was in a normal condition, and had no reason to fear that dalliance along the primrose path would bring disgrace upon her, so the big-compelling cause that oftenest drives a woman to desperate deeds was absent.

NO REASON FOR DESPAIR.

True, she was in love with Orpet, and he had jilted her for another girl, but Marian Lambert herself was only eighteen, and eighteen's fancy is proverbially fickle. More than that, she knew that Orpet was only a junior at college, that he could not marry for many years, so she had time on her side in the chance to lure him back. Also she knew that she had once fascinated him, that she had an attraction for him, and so, womanlike, she must have argued to herself that he was not wholly lost to her, no matter if she did have a rival, and that she would win him to her again.

So why should sweet-and-eighteen have committed suicide just because its bread-and-milk romance had turned a little sour?

On the other hand, why should a schoolboy commit murder just because he wanted to be off with an old love and on with a new? There are a million easier ways of getting rid of a girl than by killing her. And less dangerous.

No earthly power can make a man marry a woman if he doesn't want to. Nor is there any way to fetter a man's affections and hold him against his will. It has ever been the privilege—and the habit—of man to kiss and ride away, and the going is just as good now as it was in the days when the poet described his sex as having one foot on land and one on sea, to one love constant never."

HAD NO UNBREAKABLE TIES.

So far as it has been ascertained, there was not one single solitary tie between Marian Lambert and William Orpet that was not as easy to break as a pack thread, if he were so inclined. They had had their Summer romance, but had been lucky enough to escape its curse. They were not even engaged to be married. They had never been engaged. When the boy was tired, what was there to hold him?

He had simply to tell her that he was tired of her, that he had ceased to love her, and that come to love another girl, and the thing was done. Some tears, some entreaties, some reproaches from the girl. That was the most that she could do. Certainly a fur less dreadful thing to listen to these than to the death rattle in her throat. Better a million times to carry away with him the memory of a grief-stricken face as he told her that he no longer cared for her than to be haunted by the vision of her murdered form at his feet in the snow.

It seems incredible that a girl of eighteen should have committed suicide because her sweetheart had forsaken her for another. It seems equally incredible that the sweetheart should have killed her in order to be rid of her.

Yet the girl is dead, and the last person known to have been with her was the boy who had come to tell her that he was done with her, and that he was engaged to marry another girl.

POINTS AGAINST ORPET.

First, that he and Marian Lambert had been intimate, and that for a time he had believed that this intimacy had had unfortunate results. He is accused of having sent the girl a drug at this time, but that point has not been definitely established.

Second, that he came down secretly to meet Marian Lambert, and that the two met in the woods and spent two hours in talking together, and that the girl was never seen alive again after she entered the woods with him.

Third, that he prepared an elaborate alibi beforehand to account for the time that he would be absent from Madison keeping his appointment in Lake Forest with Marian Lambert.

Fourth, that he wrote a letter addressed to Marian Lambert and mailed it at Madison after he had, according to his own account, seen the girl die.

Fifth, according to his story, after he had told Marian Lambert that he was through with her he left her, and after going a few paces he heard her cry and saw her fall. He says that he went to her and realized that she was dying. Then he left her alone in the woods. He told no one of what had happened, and went secretly back to school without seeking assistance for her or notifying her family or the police.

Sixth, that a drug clerk in Madison claims that on the day before the girl was killed he sold Orpet a two-ounce vial.

Seventh, that no receptacle of any kind in which poison could have been held has been found. Yet cyanide of potassium, the deadly drug with which Marian Lambert was slain, acts so quickly that she must have been dead before she even fell to the ground, and so it would have been impossible for her to have thrown a bottle or box so far from her that it could not be discovered.

Eighth, that a large quantity of cyanide of potassium was found buried in a trash heap in the grounds where Orpet's father lives, and a gardener said that Orpet's father ordered him to bury it.

POINTS IN BOY'S FAVOR.

In Orpet's favor are these points:

First and foremost, that no adequate motive has been shown for the crime. There is no necessity to slay a girl in order to break off a love affair of which a man has wearied.

Second, that both Marian Lambert's father and Orpet's father are the managers of the estates of millionaires, and both have large quantities of cyanide of potassium that they use in spraying fruit trees. It was, therefore, just as easy for the girl to have obtained the poison as it was for the boy to have done so.

Third, that the snow where the girl was lying was untrampled. There was no evidence of a struggle, as there must have been if Orpet had forced the poison down the girl's throat against her will.

Fourth, the psychological fact that unlikely as the suicide theory seems, it is still far more easily believable that a hysterical girl could have thought there was something heroic in melodramatically taking her life when she was jilted, than it is credible that a boy, belonging to respectable people and occupying a respectable position in life, could have nerved himself up to commit a cold-blooded and atrocious murder for no better reason than that he was tired of a girl and didn't want to be bothered with her letters any more. For when Orpet went off to college he had removed himself bodily from Marian Lambert, and there is no suggestion that she followed him or threatened him, or annoyed him in any way except by willing to him.

So the case stands, and the very heart of its mystery is the lack of reason why the girl should have committed suicide, or why the boy should have killed her. Which was it, suicide, or murder?

'Dutch' Leonard to Wed Pretty Dancer of 'The Follies'

Boston Friends of the Red Sox Twirler Wait Ceremony

Hubert (Dutch) Leonard, the famous young southpaw of the world's champion Boston Red Sox, is programed to make the "double play" referred to in dispatches from Fresno, Cal., to the AMERICAN early in the week, according to his chums in Boston, and pretty Miss Lucile Cavanaugh, one of the particular beauties and premier dancers in Ziegfeld's Follies, is the lady he is coming East to wed. Denials are due, but Dutch's friends insist that the wedding bells are soon to peal.

Leonard met Miss Cavanaugh while the "Follies" were having their long run at the Colonial last Fall. It was a case of love at first sight. They met one night—at the Georgian. "Dutch's" chums say—"Dutch" asked Miss Cavanaugh if he could see her in the morning—she said she would be charmed—and thereafter they were inseparable as long as both remained in Boston on their professional duties.

Leonard owns one of the "classiest" roadsters in Greater Boston, and he gave Miss Cavanaugh a lot of flying spins through the parks and the suburbs when Indian Summer garbed New England scenery in its finest array.

She stopped at the Westminster and Leonard's car generally pulled up in front of the hotel every morning, when they would meet and take a ride before the famous pitcher had to go to Fenway Park for his "work" or Miss Cavanaugh had to "make" her matinee.

As soon as the AMERICAN printed that Leonard was bidding goodby to his friends at Fresno, Cal., telling them he would leave Saturday or Sunday for Hot Springs, Ark., there to get an early start in his training, his close acquaintances in Boston said they knew the reason "Dutch" was heading Eastward so early.

Even out in Fresno they said Leonard was stalling; that he wasn't going to Hot Springs—just yet—but straight through to Philadelphia, where, February 28, he would join the Order of Benedicts.

Leonard said he wasn't ready to make his "double play." However, his friends claim they are confident he is coming East to wed and state, without inserting any "buts" or "ifs," that dainty Miss Lucile Cavanaugh is the fair lady in the case.

HOLD CONTINUATION SCHOOL EXERCISES

Certification exercises of the Boston continuation schools will be held this evening in the hall of the Abraham Lincoln school, on Ferdinand street. The school has about 2,000 enrolled, and 250 certificates will be bestowed this evening. Franklin H. Dyer, Superintendent of Schools, will present the certificates and there will be addresses by men prominent in State educational circles.

"POISON PEN" CASE IN HOLYOKE COURT

Holyoke, Feb. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Malyk were arraigned in the police court this morning charged with sending "poison pen" letters to John Finster. They pleaded not guilty and their cases were continued to Feb. 25. Finster had warrants issued for their arrest declaring he was in deadly fear of bodily injury.

CHARGE HARVESTER REVOLUTION PLOT

Washington, Feb. 18.—Levi Mayer, counsel for American bankers who financed Yucatan hemp growers, today charged that the International Harvester Company furnished money for the Ortez-Argumedo revolution against the Carranza government in Yucatan last year.

ARRAIGNED FOR WINCHESTER BURGLARIES

Harry Swartz and Walter Bartae, who say they come from New York, were in Woburn court today in connection with recent burglaries in Winchester for which they are held responsible by the Winchester police.

Swartz, who is 26, was captured last night near the home of A. S. Patterson in Winchester. The police say he dropped a jimmy in the snow when arrested, and later under questioning he admitted having had a hand in recent burglaries.

An electric flashlight, a clock, several bits of jewelry and about $30 in money were found in his pockets, as well as a key which it was said fitted the front door of the Patterson home.

As a result of what he told the police, Chief McIntosh of Winchester and two officers came to Boston, secured the aid of the East Dedham street station and went to No. 263 Shawmut avenue, where they found Bartae in bed, and took him back to Winchester with them.

They found in the Shawmut avenue room, they say, $345 in money and a number of pieces of jewelry.

There have been four recent burglaries in Winchester and a number of others in adjoining cities and towns.

GOES TO DINNER, FINDS HOME ROBBED

Joshua B. Stern, proprietor of a carpet cleaning company, went to his home at No. 29 Highland avenue, Lynn, this noon for dinner and found that he house had been entered and robbed of $600 worth of gold watches, cuff links and watch chain. Neighbors saw a young man leaving the house a short while before. The youth was recognized by one neighbor. Mrs. Stern had gone out shortly before noon on an errand. The house was entered through a rear window.

MRS. MOHR RETURNS HOME

Providence, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Mohr arrived here four days after a week's vacation at Palm Beach, Fla. She was accompanied by her two children, Charlie and Virginia, and by her neice, Ella Hennon of North Adams, Mass.

On arriving at the Union Station, Mrs. Mohr said:

"I am feeling fine. The trip has made me feel a hundred per cent. better. The two children enjoyed themselves immensely. I am glad to get back to Providence, though."

It is said that Mrs. Mohr returned at the urgent request of her attorneys, who were anxious to have her on hand in connection with the settling of the estate of the late Dr. C. Franklin Mohr. Despite Attorney Cushing's denials that he knew where Mrs. Mohr was, it was admitted that a letter urging her to come home was the cause of her immediate arrival.

One of the prominent real estate agents here has been trying to sell the Newport villa of the murdered physician, and it is stated that a prospective purchaser has been found. It is for this reason that Mrs. Mohr was sent for.

Neither George Hurley nor Mr. Cushing, as administrators of the Mohr estate, care to take the responsibility of setting the final price on the Newport property. It is understood that C. Manning Mohr, son of Dr. Mohr by his first wife, is agreeable to any bargain made by Mr. Hurley, but Mrs. Mohr prefers to put her personal O. K. on all transactions relating to the estate.

SAYS U. S. MUST HAVE 4 BATTLE CRUISERS

Washington, Feb. 18.—At least four battle cruisers must be added to the American fleet to enable it cope successfully with any sea power, Captain McKeen, Secretary Daniels' aide, declared today before the House Naval Affairs Committee. He advocated a huge increase of submarines with numerous bases on each coast, at short intervals. The Japanese "public program," he said, "includes building four dreadnoughts, four battle cruisers and a number of submarines and destroyers. In addition to this its army has been increased so that its war strength will be 250,000 and in time of war will have 2,000,000 trained men.

SUSPECT PAIR OF OTTAWA FIRE PLOT

Detroit, Feb. 18.—Otto Bartholma and Ernest McCord, accused of plotting to destroy the American Car & Foundry plant in this city, were held by the police today pending further investigation. The police claim the pair are members of a band of dynamiters who have been doing damage to munition factories and bridges in the United States and Canada. They hint they know something of the burning of the Parliament House in Ottawa.

ARREST TWO NEAR MUNITIONS PLANT

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 18.—Two men were arrested this afternoon as they were watching workmen boarding the ferries here for Carney Point, where the Du Pont powder works are located. The men gave their names as Eddie Kovich and John Kovich. Each had loaded revolvers and hundreds of cartridges. They refused to say where they came from.

OFFERS $50 REWARD FOR BRISSON GIRL

No trace of Exziphina Brisson, sixteen, of Lewiston, Me., who is believed to have eloped to Boston with Frank Mattiews, a former bellboy at the hotel of her parents, has been found. Her mother, Mrs. Gilbert Brisson, has returned to her home, and has offered a reward of $50 for any information leading to the location of the missing girl.

Clam Digger Assails State Game Wardens

William Walsh, clam digger, took the floor before the Legislative committee on fisheries and game at the State House today and poured out the following complaint against game wardens:

"I have been arrested twenty times. On at least a half-dozen of these occasions I had not dug a clam and was not there to dig clams and didn't have a clam on me or anywhere near me. I was after sea worms for bait. Yet three wardens took me at one of these times and afterwards took oath that I had a basket filled with clams and that they looked in my basket and saw the clams, when I didn't have a single clam. And there are twenty-five other men in this room who have had similar experiences."

It was a hearing on the bill framed by Clarence W. Rowley, the Boston lawyer, to allow clam-digging on any flats not contaminated with bacteria of contagious disease.

Briefs Filed for City Employes Ousted by Mayor

Attorney Arthur Dehon Hill filed in the Dorchester Court today petitions for an order requiring Commissioner of Public Works Edward F. Murphy to tell why three men were recently discharged from that department.

The men were among the seventeen discharged by order of Mayor Curley. They are Storrs L. Durkee of the paving department, Frank A. McInnis of the engineering department, and Bliss W. Robinson of the drainage department.

Clerk Frank Tuttle said that in view of the fact that Mayor Curley was away, he would set the cases for a hearing on March 18, by which time the Mayor will have returned. Judge Churchill will hear the cases.

MILLETT QUALIFIES ON THE GAME BOARD

ASK TEETH IN RECALL BILL

Senator Martin Hays of Brighton declared today that the tremendously big recall vote against Mayor Curley at the last city election is striking evidence of the practical failure of the recall clause in the Boston city charter.

"We should either have a recall with teeth in it or no recall," said Senator Hays in urging the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to change the term of Mayor from four to two years.

"It is a practical impossibility to recall the Mayor of Boston under the present charter," he declared. "At the last city election 47,336 citizens voted to recall the Mayor and 25,784 voted against the recall. Yet the recall was impossible because the charter provides that at least one-half of all the registered voters of Boston must vote in favor of a recall to make it operative.

"The recall clause was put in as a joy to those who didn't want a four-year term for Mayor.

"When the present Mayor's term expires," he said, "we are going to have a Good Government mayor and the only hesitancy I have about this bill of mine is that it would reduce his term from four to two years. Yet, it must be allowed that the recall is an impossibility."

Representative Samuel Davis of Boston, who said that the recall is ineffective, declared that "a mayor wouldn't be recalled unless he committed murder or arson."

BAY STATE COUPLE JAILED FOR THEFT

Portland, Me., Feb. 18.—William and Bertha Ortels, arrested here on shoplifting charges, were given jail sentences aggregating 130 days each today in the Municipal Court. Mrs. Ortels tearfully pleaded for leniency for the sake of her children. The couple share Concord Junction, Mass., as their home, and say they have children there. They pleaded guilty to the charges against them. Their sentences will be served in the Cumberland County Jail at Portland.

FINED FOR STORING MATCHES LOOSELY

CLOSING OUT

Our Entire Stocks of Men's and Young Men's Clothes

Regardless of Cost or Loss

It is with great reluctance that we are taking these measures to discontinue our Boston store, which for years has been one of the main links in the chain of Georges stores. But conditions compel this drastic action. In spite of a splendid gross increase in sales during 1915—the Boston store failed to show a profit, due to the constantly rising cost of doing business, such as corner rental, taxes, high salaries, expensive displays, overhead, etc.

Considering the high character of Georges model clothes, the rising woolen market and famine for dyestuffs—this bona fide sale offers the most legitimate reductions and greatest money saving opportunities in Boston today!

Schmidt, Who Raved in His Cell, Walks Firmly to Chair

dead. But after a hasty examination by Dr. Mereness, the prison physician, the current was again turned on, this time for six seconds. After a second examination a third shock was given, lasting five seconds. Dr. Mereness then pronounced Schmidt dead.

It was 5:35 o'clock when the seventeen witnesses, doctors and newspapermen assembled in the office of Warden Kirchwey. Eleven minutes later Dorner led the march to the death chamber. Silently the witnesses took their seats. Five minutes passed in ominous silence. Suddenly a red door on the right of the chamber was thrown open and from it issued the voice of Hans Schmidt. He was calling good-by to his fellow prisoners in a loud voice. There were nineteen inmates of the death house.

"Good-by everybody. Good-by all, especially Watson," were the words that floated through the little door into the death chamber. Watson will be the next inmate of the death house to be executed.

Schmidt then stepped through the door into the room where he was to meet his death. His beard had been shaved off. His head was closely cropped. No one would have recognized him. Preceding the slayer were Keeper Dorner and Father William Cashin, Roman Catholic chaplain of the prison. Schmidt held himself erect. He walked with a firm step, repeatedly crying out the Litany of the Dying. Firmly he paced the few steps to the death-dealing chair. Then he turned and faced the witnesses. He held aloft the crucifix he carried in his right hand as if to hold in check the four stalwart guards in blue, who sprang forward to seize him.

"One minute," he cried. "I want to say one word before I go. I beg forgiveness of all I have offended or scandalized and I forgive all who have offended against me."

By this time the guards had forced Schmidt into the chair and were adjusting the straps around his arms and waist. Schmidt prayed aloud, repeating the words of a prayer after Father Cashin.

"Into Thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit," he concluded.

Then with his voice as firm as when he bade good-by to his fellow inmates in the death house, the slayer repeated his last words.

Scarcely had he finished when the attendants had the electrode attached to his right leg, the brown cap with the black mask slipped over his head and the wire at the top adjusted.

COOLEST MAN IN CHAMBER.

Schmidt's conduct was a surprise to the prison officials. His last night on earth he spent alternately raving and protesting his innocence and declaring that he had made his peace with God. The guards had expected a scene at the execution. He was the coolest man in the death chamber. He almost domineered those who assisted in putting him to death. His order to the guards to "Wait a minute" just as they were about to strap him in the chair was like the command of a general to his troops.

For the first time in the history of Sing Sing a full mass was said for a prisoner about to die in the death chair. A temporary altar was erected in Schmidt's cell in the death house. The mass was said by Father Cashin. After the mass Father Cashin prayed with the condemned man until it was time for him to enter the death chamber.

SCHMIDT'S CRIME ONE OF MOST BRUTAL IN NEW YORK'S HISTORY

By International News Service.

Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—The crime for which Hans Schmidt was sentenced to die was one of the most cruel ever committed in committed in New York. The victim was devoted to her abandoned and unprincipled paramour and trusted him to the end, believing in her simplicity that he had in some mysterious way hallowed their relations and made their union divinely sanctioned.

It was on September 5, 1913, that the upper part of the girl's body was found floating in the Hudson River, off Weehawken, N. J., opposite Manhattan.

In ten days, by a remarkable piece of detective work, Police Inspector Faurot and his assistants had solved the at first baffling mystery.

Faurot identified the body through the embroidery on a pillow slip, found with the piece of torso as that of a former maid servant at Schmidt's apartments. Schmidt, who for three years had been acting as a clergyman in New York, although the communicants and other clergymen sometimes complained of his lax methods, was arrested.

On the day of his arrest Schmidt made a full confession. He said he had killed the girl while she slept and cut her body into nine pieces.

He told also how he had betrayed the simple servant and admitted other crimes. Apparently he had worked together with several other monsters in accomplishing the undoing of young girls. His record was thoroughly examined and he was discovered to have a series of misdeeds to his credit in different parts of this country and in Germany, where he was born.

Schmidt's statements soon became wild and it was thought he was insane. Alienists for the State on October 22, 1913, however, declared he was sane and shamming hallucinations.

The detectives led him to the apartment on the third floor of the Manhurst avenue apartment house and he reconstructed the tragedy. Lifting from the cheap, white-enameled iron bed the imaginary body of the girl he described it into the bath room, cutting and placed it in the small bath tub. Someone handed him the instruments that he had used, a kitchen knife and a saw.

"You see," he said in a sullen way, "it didn't hurt her. It couldn't have hurt her. She was asleep when I killed her. She was asleep when I carried her into the room. Her throat was exposed."

He cut her throat. With the saw he dismembered the body. The pieces he wrapped in pillow cases and other articles in the cheaply furnished flat. That night and within the next two days he made six trips across the Fort Lee Ferry at One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, each time dropping a piece of the dismembered body into the Hudson River.

"I first threw the upper torso," he told the detectives. "Then the lower. I carried after that the head, the arms, the legs."

On the third day after the murder the upper part of the body was found off the Palisades near Weehawken. Two days later the lower torso was found near Bergen Neck, N. J. One leg or limb was picked up off Keansburg, two days later. The head was never recovered.

Twice the body was wrongly identified. Inspector Faurot and his staff were continuously busy. The pillow cases were always the only clew. The detectives learned that a little truck load of furnishings, containing two such pillow cases, had been delivered at the Bradhurst avenue flat two weeks before.

There detectives found the knife and saw other unmistakable evidences of the crime, but not the criminal. They watched but he did not return to the flat. The detectives gathered a description of him. They also found letters in the flat addressed to Anna Aumuller at the parish house.

Following that clew they identified the body as that of Anna Aumuller, who had come from Germany, and who had been a servant in the parish house until about the time the Harlem flat was rented. The trail of the criminal led the detectives into the church. In the presence of the aged Father Gerald Huntmann they confronted his assistant with a picture of the dead girl.

"Did you kill that girl?" the inspector sharply questioned. Schmidt put up his hands as if to shield himself from the face of the woman he had killed.

"Yes," the word was wrung from his lips. "Yes," I killed her," he choked.

The whole story soon came to light. It developed that while Schmidt had been educated as if for holy orders, he probably had never been ordained to them. He contended that he had been admitted, but that the bishop who he said had ordained him "had me arrested because he said I was not ordained." His credentials by which he gained entrance to the church in America seem to have been forgeries.

Schmidt was born in Aschaffenburg, Germany, according to his own statement. He was thirty-one at the time he committed the crime in 1913.

"My parents are both living in the old home town," he said. "I was ordained September 23, 1904. I came to this country in 1907. When I first came here I went to Louisville, then Trenton. In December, 1910, I came to New York as assistant pastor.

"It was there I met Anna Aumuller. She was a servant in the house where I lived. We were attracted to each other. We made frequent excursions together at night—that is, in the early mornings. I conducted services for nightworkers. After the services I would meet Anna.

Last night Schmidt gave Fr. Cashin his only wish. His dying request that he send them to his mother in Germany. He gave Fr. Cashin a prayer book, and to Walter Watson, his closest friend in the death house, he left a pillow he had used in his cell. Other trinkets he had in his cell he distributed among the other inmates of the death house.

Schmidt's body was claimed by Fr. Cashin on behalf of the dead man's mother and will be buried by him. The place of burial will be kept secret by the priest for the present.

According to Fr. Cashin, Schmidt continued to the last to protest his innocence of the murder of Anna Aumuller.

LAST NIGHT OF SLAYER.

Schmidt issued a final statement through his lawyer, Alphonse G. Koelble. He denied that he was responsible for the murder of Anna Aumuller, for whose death he was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Miss Aumuller was murdered in September, 1913. She had been maid in the parish house of St. Boniface's Church in this city.

Schmidt's statement follows:

I will be put to death for lying and not for murder. Whether Anna Aumuller died from the results of illegal surgery. Had the police not abused such a wonderful facility for believing everything I told them and had they made any independent investigation, they would have speedily discovered this.

Detective Cassasa tried very hard to make me admit that fact, but I felt I was morally responsible for the girl's death and could not in honor drag to ruin those who took part in the operation at my solicitation.

It may be that shortly after the girl's death I was mentally deranged. But I never have been insane, though I admit I may be abnormal.

I consider my death a miscarriage of justice. The machinery of the district attorney's office and the police is overwhelming, even against the most innocent.

The justice who tried me told the jury that even if I believed I was inspired by God to kill Anna Aumuller I would be guilty of murder, if I knew that I had violated the law of the State of New York, so the jury could not help convicting me.

I declined at all times to appeal to Governor Whitman for clemency. First, because he had been the district attorney who had prosecuted me, and in the second place because I wanted justice and not clemency. The doctors he called to investigate my story were frank enough to say they could find no corroboration of my original story that I had cut Anna Aumuller's throat.

I charge bad faith on the part of nobody. It is only one result of the judicial system, just as there is weakness in human nature. But I happen to be the victim this time, and I hope and pray that time will help prove my one of my contentions, and that my judicial murder will help to abolish executions, for not one-third of the men who have been in the death chamber with me, including Becker, were guilty of murder.

INDIGESTION AND STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distresses vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is in its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost you a hundred cents' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth more than its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

Pape's Diapepsin instantly neutralizes the acids in the stomach, stops food fermentation or souring, absorbs gases and starts the digestion. The relief is certain, wonderful—stomach sufferers have a pleasant surprise awaiting them.—Advertisement.

To People Who Are Under Normal Weight

Good Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women Who Want to Put on Flesh.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness, and it is also unequalled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the body. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. All leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, its use is not recommended to normal people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

NEW HAVEN LINE FIGHTS TO KEEP SHIPS.

By L. V. B. RUCKER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Feb. 18.—The New Haven Railroad's efforts to retain control of its various steamship lines under the Panama act came up here before Interstate Commerce Commission. Hearings were begun before Judson C. Clements, a member of the commission, in the rooms of the Merchants' Association.

Frank M. Swacker, special assistant to the attorney-general; Adrian H. Boole, H. Larne Browne and H. H. Elder appeared for the commission. Benjamin I. Spock and Arthur Russell represented the New Haven. The Boston Chamber of Commerce, the New York Merchants' Association and several of the steamship lines also had lawyers at the hearing.

The railroad attorneys called attention to the decree of the United States District Court, ordering the New Haven to dispose of its interests in the New England Navigation Company. Elder explained that after the Panama act is in effect, all the New Haven has to do is to show the court that it has complied with the decree or is about to do so. Spock declared the company's coastwise and Sound water lines do not compete, and thus do not come within the provisions of the Panama act. He also declared that many decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission had been favorable to the railroad's contention.

GUARD BURGESS PLANT AFTER WARNING

The aeroplane plant of the Burgess-Curtis Company in Marblehead, which is making flying machines for the allies, was guarded through the night by the police and was also carefully searched, following a telephone warning received by Mrs. W. Starling Burgess at 11 o'clock last night that the plant would be destroyed.

After Mrs. Burgess had notified the Marblehead police of the telephone threat, she and the other members of the household left the Burgess residence, which is located within the plant enclosure, and passed the rest of the night at the home in Devereaux of Mrs. F. H. Russell, wife of the company's manager.

At 9 o'clock last night James Hastings and Frank Carey, engineer and fireman at the Marblehead municipal lighting plant, which adjoins the Burgess-Curtis place, noticed two men in the boiler room of the light station. The strangers left so quickly that Carey and Hastings became suspicious. They thought the strangers must have gone through the fence into the Burgess-Curtis yard. They notified the aeroplane company, but nothing particular was thought of the incident until Mrs. Burgess received the telephone message two hours later.

It was reported today that the threat had been telegraphed to Salem from New York and was relayed by telephone from Salem to Marblehead, but this report has not been confirmed.

Greeley S. Curtis of the company was called. With the police he searched every part of the aeroplane plant. Nothing out of the way was found. Police Chief Goodwin threw a cordon of men around the plant for the rest of the night. A guard was continued there today.

JITNEY WRECKED BY GASOLINE BLOW-UP

A gasoline tank on a large jitney autobus, running between Salem and Lynn, exploded early today. The bus was destroyed by the explosion and the fire that followed. The bus was owned and driven by B. Segal of Boston. With him was his brother, H. Segal. They had taken a party of twenty-six young people home from a dance and were returning to Salem without passengers.

On Highland avenue, Salem, the driver noticed smoke coming from beneath the seat. He and his brother had barely jumped to the street when the gasoline tank blew up. The bus was valued by the owners at $5,000.

SAVE YOUR OLD FALSE TEETH

Don't throw away your old false teeth; they're making them into war munitions.

A thriving business in old false teeth has developed in many cities of the United States within the past six months. The older the false teeth, the better price they bring.

One man in Boston dealing in old false teeth made a boast the other day that he made $500 in a week out of false teeth that had been thrown aside.

Out of these false teeth of past generations they extract chemicals, but the platinum in the old-fashioned teeth brings from six to eight dollars. The plate itself is cast aside. But the teeth are put under an intense heat and the chemicals extracted, together with other ingredients, go to war factories.

TWO ROXBURY GIRLS GUILTY OF THEFT

Miss Dorothy Zanders, twenty- of Fisher Avenue, Roxbury, and Katherine Maguire, twenty, of Dell avenue, Roxbury, were found guilty when arraigned in the Municipal Court today charged with stealing goods from a downtown department store. Both cases were put over until tomorrow for disposition.

BOSTON GUARDED AGAINST GRIPPE

Deputy Health Commissioner Thomas H. Sises today declared that Boston had fared better than other large cities in the recent nationwide epidemic of grippe and pneumonia. He said this was due to the health department's campaign of advertising. For the period from December 1 to February 1 the deaths in 1915-1916 from grippe and pneumonia were 578 for the latter and 66 for grippe. The previous year in the same period there were 721 deaths from pneumonia and seven from grippe.

TROOPS CALLED OUT IN ANSONIA STRIKE

Ansonia, Ct., Feb. 18.—Fearing further trouble as a result of the strike of 1,500 unskilled laborers in the four local mills of the American Brass Company, Mayor Schumacher today appealed to High Sheriff Philip Hugo of New Haven for assistance, with the result that the sheriff, with the consent of Governor Holcomb and Adjutant-General George M. Cole of the Connecticut National Guard, ordered troop A, cavalry, of New Haven to report at once in this city, to aid in restoring and preserving order, and to guard the city and the mill property.

REPORT CORRUPTION IN RUSSIAN ARMY

Berlin, Feb. 18.—Russian newspapers reaching Berlin contain sensational disclosures of alleged corruption in the Russian army. The secretary of the recruiting committee at Petrograd is said to have caused the arrest of a large number of army surgeons who were accused of accepting bribes of 10,000 roubles and more to reject recruits. It also was declared that 900,000 roubles sent by the Petrograd government to the governor of Moscow for the relief of refugees disappeared on the way.

MORE PAY FOR SCRUBWOMEN URGED

"Our poorhouses are being filled with women whose health has been broken as a result of being forced to work during the late hours scrubbing floors for pay that nobody could live on," declared Mrs. Mary H. Dewey of the State Board of Labor and Industries of a hearing today before the legislative Committee on Public Service, on two bills providing for an increase in pay for scrubwomen employed in public buildings in Massachusetts.

One of the petitions introduced by Representative Daniel W. Casey of South Boston calls for an increase of five cents an hour for the scrubwomen employed in the State House. This measure was supported by Representative Casey, James T. Sanborn and M. Frank Gillespie. Chairman Ellis said the sergeant-at-arms had the power to grant this increase if the Legislature would grant the necessary appropriation, which amounted to less than $500.

The other measure is on the petition of the Women's Trade Union League and provides that women employed in the cleaning of public buildings in the State be paid the prevailing rate of wages. Mrs. Bridget Dunn of the Building Cleaners' Union and Miss Ann Withington of the Women's Trade Union League, spoke in favor of both petitions.

Senator Nathan A. Tufts of Waltham, Arthur J. Wellington, Edwin J. Flynn, Endicott P. Saltonstall, M. Sumner Corgan and a score of other attorneys supported a petition of William C. Dillingham to increase the salary of John R. MacKinnon, assistant clerk of courts of Middlesex, from $2,000 to $2,500.

MANY HELD UP BY ACCIDENT TO SUBWAY CAR

Thousands of commuters who use the Boylston street subway were delayed in getting into the city today during the morning rush hour, when a car caving on a semi-convertible car fell to the track as the car was about to enter the tube at the Kenmore square entrance.

After a delay of thirty-five minutes the cars following the disabled one were switched over to the Beacon street surface line and proceeded to Park street. Inbound traffic in the tube was cut off. Passengers entering the tube stations along Boylston street were also delayed, but were finally told of the tie-up by station employes.

After cars were diverted by the way of Beacon street, a heavily laden pung at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Beacon street broke down, completing the tieup of cars. The wrecking crew found the pung first, removed that, and then removed the car that blocked the subway.

BOY IS INJURED IN 'FOLLOW MY LEADER'

Fourteen-year-old John Pike of Melrose Highlands came to grief today while acting as leader in a game of "follow my leader." He started to jump from the slope of the Highlands Congregational Church, tripped in the jump and fell head-first to the walk six feet below. Both wrists were dislocated. He was taken to his home at No. 14 Ellsworth place.

HELD IN $4,500 ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Frank A. Andrews, also known by several aliases, was arraigned today in the Roxbury court on two charges of breaking and entering. He pleaded not guilty to both charges, and on the first was held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury and on the second was held in $1,500 for a hearing February 21.

On the Remington and Nowhere Else

Here are two facts about the Remington which every typewriter buyer should know:

1. The Remington Column Selector adds 25 per cent. to the letter writing speed of the typist. This is not a claim or an estimate. It is a definite fact—proved and established by any number of comparative tests.

2. The Column Selector is a Remington feature exclusively. No other machine has it—or anything like it.

Adds 25 per cent. to the speed Adds nothing to the price

Oh, yes, other machines have devices which look like it, with the five keys, etc. It is easy for a salesman, who knows the supreme merit of this Remington feature, to call them "column selector" keys. But there is no other device on any other typewriter which can do what the Remington Column Selector does.

The Remington Column Selector is the only feature on any typewriter which permits instantaneous setting of the carriage at any desired point on the line.

It is the only feature which provides this setting by either forward or backward movement.

It is the only feature which provides true "express service" with no stop-to-stop movement in reaching any writing point.

And these are the features which make the 25 per cent. speed gain.

Let us show you the real and only Column Selector—on the Model 10 Remington.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated—you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints and muscles, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—Advertisement.

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The sharp pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints disappear by expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been helped by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion is a powerful blood-purifier to increase the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Scott's Emulsion cannot harm, it has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. Free from alcohol.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly harm the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

Comery Is Hanged in Darkness

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—Oscar J. Comery, the Manchester wife-poisoner, was hanged in the dark, without a gallows, in the storeroom of New Hampshire State prison, at 12:29 o'clock this morning. Twelve minutes and eleven seconds later he was pronounced officially dead.

It was the first execution in this State since Frank Almy was hanged in this prison twenty-three years ago for the murder of Christie Warden. The Almy execution was reported to have been bungled, in that the rope stretched until the condemned man's toes touched the floor and he was slowly strangled to death. From a standpoint of a legal killing the execution of Comery was successful.

So far as known there never was a legal execution in the United States quite like that of Oscar J. Comery. The man stood, not on a gallows, but on a trap door set in the second floor of the prison storeroom, which is in the south wing of the institution.

DROPS BELOW FLOOR.

When the trap was sprung Comery, with the noose around his neck, shot down toward the ground floor, where physicians stood to certify the death.

Just before the trap was sprung the single electric light in the execution room was snapped off, so that the nineteen witnesses present did not actually see the death plunge. The light was off twenty seconds.

Comery met his fate without a whimper. He was led into the storeroom by the Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, his spiritual adviser. He was followed by Warden Rowe of the prison.

Comery stopped for a moment at the door leading into the execution room and faced Father O'Leary, who put a cross to Comery's lips. Comery kissed the cross twice. His kisses were audible to the spectators. He was bound at the shoulders and his arms were strapped to his side. His face appeared flushed. He eyed the spectators and wore a solemn look on his face.

He walked steadily to the trap set in the floor and looked down at it. As he did so, one of the prison officials strapped his legs. Another official held the noose. A black cap was placed over Comery's head and the noose was adjusted. The knot in the noose was pressed against Comery's neck.

Suddenly, the lone light in the room was turned off and immediately there was a crash. Comery was plunged into eternity, in atonement for his crime. In twenty seconds the light was turned on again and the spectators beheld Comery hanging. His head was about two and one-half inches below the floor. His feet were about four feet from the ground floor.

Dr. Russell Wilkins, the prison physician, and Doctors Chaney, Adams and G. M. Watson stood over Comery. When he had been hanging ten minutes Doctor Wilkins applied the stethoscope to Comery's heart. Two minutes later Dr. Wilkins pronounced Comery dead.

WITNESS PAINTS.

The nineteen witnesses included six newspapermen. The majority seemed nervous. One witness fainted while gazing at Comery's suspended body. The scene had proved too much for him. He was revived with smelling salts by one of the physicians. After becoming conscious the revived witness looked at the body again, this time without fainting.

When Comery's body was taken down it was placed at once in a plain coffin, removed to the yard and later taken in an undertaker's wagon to a local mortuary. It will be buried in a private lot secured through the good offices of the Rev. George A. Dempsey, pastor of the Sacred Heart church. Father Demers is doing this for Mrs. Mary St. Cyr, sister of Comery.

Comery refused to confer with Father Demers at first, but it was suggested that he make his peace with God. But later he reconsidered his refusal and did see a priest, in the person of the Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, pastor of St. John's Church and vicar-general of the diocese of Manchester. Father Demers has charge of the funeral arrangements, and it was understood that the burial will be private. Mrs. St. Cyr will witness the burial, with several relatives.

At 8.45 p. m. the witnesses invited to the execution assembled in the warden's office at the prison. A count of those present at that time showed the number to be thirteen. The official representative of Attorney General Tuttle, County Solicitor Burrin H. Hinman of Berlin, remarked about the unlucky number of those present. Another remarked that there would be more mishap at the hanging. One of the thirteen was the man who later collapsed after the springing of the trap.

The thirteen number in the room was broken when Warden Rowe requested that the newspaper men meet him and Sheriff Stearns in an adjoining room.

In the ante-room of his office Sheriff Stearns said to the newspaper men:

"There is to be no scaffold. We have made arrangements for the hanging on a different line than heretofore.

"The execution will take place in a room off the south wing. It is a storeroom. There is a trap in that room and the rope will be suspended from the ceiling. The prisoner will walk from an adjoining room and it is arranged that at a signal the trap will be sprung and the condemned man, who will be placed in a position on it, will drop through, with the rope around his neck. He will be left hanging until pronounced dead by the physicians.

"I wish to say that I have prepared a statement for you gentlemen which I will read. The statement is as follows:

"In compliance with the mandate of the court and the laws of the State it becomes my painful duty to preside at the execution of Oscar J. Comery. It has been my constant endeavor to make the occasion as humane as possible and to uphold the dignity of the State in my official capacity."

Warden Rowe and myself have arranged the execution at an hour when it would cause the least commotion and leave the least depression upon the prisoners confined in this institution. The methods used in other states have their advantages where executions are numerous and frequent, but seem to be impracticable here, inasmuch as the conviction is of a permanent nature, requiring a special building separate for this purpose.

EXPRESSES THANKS.

I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks and those of Warden Rowe to the press for the very considerate manner in which they have treated us. I have given permission to the representatives of the several newspapers, including Mr. Thomas F. Phelan of the Boston AMERICAN, to attend the execution that the public may have a true report.

I trust that the ordeal will be conducted in a manner that will meet with the approval of the people, and of those who made the law. My deputies and myself are performing our painful duties reluctantly and I solicit your generosity in refraining from publishing their names and also the names of any others who may be present.

After the statement, Warden Rowe made a few suggestions to the newspaper men as to how they should behave during the execution. He then piloted the newspaper men to the apothecary shop, where they remained an hour or more. Later they again went to Warden Rowe's office, where the witnesses had gathered, among whom were several police officials from Manchester, headed by Chief of Police M. J. Healey. An hour passed slowly.

When midnight arrived, Warden Rowe appeared at the door of the room and said, "Gentlemen, we are ready." The gathering took on even a more solemn aspect. All walked out of the room to the hallway, which was dimly lighted, and then walked in single file down a long stairway to the courtyard.

MEN WAIT OUTSIDE.

Across the street seated on a fence were several men. Further down, near an electric car, which was chartered for police officials from Manchester, stood another group. The men on the fence and the group at the car backed away when they saw the witnesses leaving the prison. Meanwhile, the latter walked in Indian file along the side of the prison wall and around to the right, where they passed an automobile and a two horse undertaker's wagon. They kept on until they came to a gate which Warden Rowe opened. The gate made weird noises as its fastenings were loosened. All entered the inner yard of the prison. Warden Rowe stepped to the door leading to the flour supply room and looked at his watch. It was then 12.05 a. m. There was a sound of voices and a noise as if some one inside was pounding something. Warden Rowe told the witnesses to wait in the yard a minute. The minute wore on and before the door was opened to admit those without it was 12.20.

The room was filled with bags of flour on each side. A small donkey engine was set up in back. To the front, near the door through which the witnesses entered, and close to the right, was the trap in the floor. It was just big enough for a man's body to go through and looked as if it had been recently cut.

The covering or trap consisted of a square black board, six by four. Suspended overhead was a thick cable rope rather yellowish in color. The rope ran through a sort of steel hook in the ceiling. The end of it was tied to the wall on the right near an electric light. The other end was suspended from the ceiling, and when the spectators entered the noose was in the hands of an aged man with a flowing beard.

All eyes were centred on the trap and the rope, and much comment was made at the method to be pursued in carrying out the execution of Comery.

Warden Rowe exhorted each and every man present not to speak above a whisper. The newspaper men took a position back on the right, near the stairway leading to the hanging room, door through which Comery came was facing the newspaper men in the right hand corner. Everybody kept their eyes glued on that door.

At precisely 12:25 Comery made his appearance. Father O'Leary walked a little ahead of him. Comery walked with a firm step. He appeared reconciled. The teachings of the Catholic faith had fortified him with a firm resolution that he was to meet his Maker. He found a consolation in his faith. His eyes shone with brilliancy. As he stopped at the door Father O'Leary put the crucifix in front of him. Comery gazed at it and then kissed it twice.

Father O'Leary bade Comery goodbye and the latter walked steadily and met his fate without even uttering a word. Even when the trap was sprung and his body fell downward he did not utter a sound.

All present agreed that the hanging was a success. There was not anything to indicate that Comery suffered. Physicians said it was "a perfect hanging."

The crime for which Comery met his death was the most atrocious in the annals of the State.

While awaiting trial he attempted suicide by cutting his throat. Later, he took a small mirror which was in his cell and worked the glass out of the frame. He broke the glass into small fragments and swallowed them. The news of this attempt of Comery's to end his life was not made public till last night. It is said that Comery hovered between life and death for some time as a result of swallowing the glass.

Comery Goes to his Death Without a Word

AT precisely 12:28 a. m. Comery appeared. He walked with a firm step and seemed reconciled. His eyes shone with a great brilliancy. Father O'Leary put the crucifix in front of Comery and the condemned man kissed it twice. He uttered no word while the noose was being adjusted and made no sound when dropped to his death.—From witness' story of Comery's execution.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

Look at tongue! If feverish, bilious, constipated, take no chances.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. You need not coax this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers love it because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow. You can get "California Syrup of Figs" at any druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

EASY WAY TO HEAL COMMON SKIN-TROUBLES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but well-tried and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable druggist's get a jar of resinol ointment and a cake of resinol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage, if necessary, to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first application, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. Resinol pills (resinol) are due to some serious internal disorder. HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month and still others have headaches occasionally, but not as regular intervals. The best doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so he gives a prescription for pain relievers, which give temporary relief but the headache returns as soon as the treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take anti-kamnia tablets and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all druggists in any quantity, for worth, 25c worth of them. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on take two tablets, and in many cases the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The neat and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.

Genuine A-K Tablets bear the A monogram. At all druggists.

LODGE SOUNDS WARNING ON WAR

States could no, be placed on an uncommissioned merchantman, armed solely for self defence, our action would affect only one belligerent; it would alter conditions created by the war, and would therefore be unneutral.

"It would make us at once the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine has been driven from the ocean. It would put us in a position of hostility to those belligerents whose merchant marine still freely sails the seas. It would make us the ally of one belligerent and expose us to the gravest hostility of the others. It would be a step towards war.

"President Lincoln, during the Civil War, laid down the principle that he was utterly opposed to having a ship of the United States creep up under false colors or any disguise upon a merchantman and capture or destroy her without visit and search. I think we may say with certainty that that great President would never have associated to having a United States submarine creep up on a merchantman, under water, and destroy her with all on board, including neutral and non-combatant men, women and children, without giving them an opportunity to escape.

"The instrument makes no defence in the principle laid down by Lincoln."

Senator Lodge contrasted the instruction of Lincoln and McKinley to merchant ships in the Civil and Spanish-American Wars "with their humanity, morality and respect for law," with what had actually been done in the cases of the Lusitania, Arabic and Ancona."

He then discussed at great length the purely legal side of the case in support of his general contention.

SPEECH BY STERLING.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota followed Senator Lodge. He charged that the new German submarine policy was "encouraged, if not inspired, by the memorandum of our State Department to the entente powers."

He then read press reports of a State Department memorandum to Great Britain to the effect that the administration was strongly impressed with the reasonableness of the agreement that armed merchantmen should be treated as auxiliary cruisers.

"A dangerous and vicious principle," was the way he characterized the memorandum.

Senator Sterling warned that another sea horror caused by submarines would certainly cause war, if Americans were involved.

WAR SUMMARY

The Turkish War Office has not yet admitted the fall of Erzerum, but this announcement may be expected soon as the last official bulletin is devoted to a description of the terrific fighting before the fortress, and the losses inflicted upon the Russians.

From Russian sources come unreliable—because variable—estimates of the Russian captures in men and munitions. The estimates in men vary from 20,000 to 100,000; and in guns, from 100 to 1,000.

It appears probable that except for those scattering prisoners picked up in isolated forts, the Russian captures were not numerous. For Erzerum was not invested. In fact, the Turks could have retreated from the fortress in three directions—northwest, southwest and south.

Under the circumstances it is unlikely that any remained to be captured except the actual defenders of the last forts to fall.

The first official Russian statement told of the escape of Turkish troops and their pursuit. So it is probable that even with Erzerum gone, another big battle must be fought before the Russians can hope for any swift advance.

In the European war areas, storms prevented activity in most cases; and where there was fighting, it was of unimportant dimensions and without results.

Bernstorff Blocked by Rivals at Home.

By SYDNEY B. CAVE.
Staff Correspondent International News Service.

London, Feb. 18.—Court intrigue at Berlin has arisen to make more serious the situation between the United States and Germany. The information concerning the inner jealousies of the Berlin court comes in a dispatch to the London Times from a Scandinavian correspondent. The correspondent says that Dr. Solf, the Colonial Secretary, has ambition to succeed to the Foreign Office after the war. He finds in Count J. H. von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, his chief rival.

Out of this situation the difficulties of the Washington negotiations grow. The efforts of Count von Bernstorff have been toward keeping peace and good relations with the United States.

"His rivals at home are said to be making his pathway hard by interposing objections to such concessions as the Ambassador asks Berlin to make in the interest of harmony.

"The intrigues of the Von Tirpitz party have been and still are a danger cloud threatening the chancellor," says the correspondent. "Admiral von Tirpitz has been inclined to retire, but his staff has so far persuaded him to remain. His inspired press campaign against the chancellor is not only carried on by Count Reventlow, but to various foreign newspapers have been furnished insidious articles.

"It is reported, however, that the Kaiser shares the views of diplomatists and disapproves of the Zeppelin raids on England, which, in his opinion, are senseless, being of no military importance and only calculated to make friends.

"This eventuality is still hoped for in German diplomatic circles, which cling to the belief that a peace, whatever its outward appearance, can be so arranged as to create future trouble between Great Britain and Russia.

"The German diplomatic service is still the favorite object of abuse among the German public. It is now understood that the Colonial Secretary, Dr. Solf, regards himself as the only possible Foreign Secretary after the war and is confident of defeating the ambition of Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador at Washington."

Ambassador at Washington."

Ily relations with Britain more difficult after the war.

U. S. Will Seek Britain's Attitude

Washington, Feb. 18.—Following a fifteen-minute conference today between President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing, it was announced that England shortly will be asked to give this government a clear, concise statement on her position in regard to the armed merchant vessel question.

Officials of this government, it was explained, have been moving more or less in the dark on the matter, particularly as regards Great Britain's position. Germany has definitely stated her position.

Following the conference between the Secretary and the President the regular cabinet meeting was held. Members stated that the foreign relations was not touched on, only routine matters being discussed.

PREDICT EARLY WAR MOVE BY RUMANIA

By CAMILLO CIAFARRA,
Staff Correspondent, International News Service.

Rome, Feb. 18.—Rumania is about to enter the war on the side of the entente allies. Simultaneously with the intervention of Rumania a great offensive will be undertaken by the allies from Salonica.

Reports from Bucharest announce that the capture of Erzerum by the Russians will hasten Rumania's decision to intervene at an early date.

In Rumanian official circles it is stated that during March there will be a concentration of Russian forces on the Bessarabian frontier. The purpose will be to permit Rumania to transfer troops to the Bulgarian frontier.

The allies in the meantime are hurrying the transportation to Salonica of Serbian, Albanian and Montenegrin troops. These reinforcements will permit the Anglo-French forces to begin their offensive against the Teutonic troops simultaneously with Rumanian's intervention.

The Rumanian minister of war has ordered that all foreigners under forty remaining in Rumania since the beginning of the war must enroll before the end of March.

Russians Marching Upon Trebizond

By International News Service,

Petrograd, Feb. 18. — As reports filter in the Russian victory at Erzerum is magnified. The number of guns captured is reported even greater than those taken at Przemysl.

The number of prisoners taken by the Russians is increasing. More than 40,000 have already been captured. Much ammunition was also taken. The pursuit of the fleeing Turks continues.

Unofficial reports received here today state that the Russians have reached Baiburt, seventy-five miles northwest of Erzerum on the road to Trebizond.

The rejoicing among the populace over the fall of the Turk fortress continues. Much of the credit for the capture of Erzerum is given to Siberian troops.

A majority of the forts were captured at the point of the bayonet.

"The record of the last 48 hours," says one report, "may be summed up as 12 miles of territory on the map, with eight forts above the snow line covered by the cyclonic rush of the endurance must have been terribly tried by the climatic conditions over a mountainous country, of which many miles stand on end."

Berlin Reports Repulse of British.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—Attempts of the English troops to recapture a position taken by the Germans south of Ypres were repulsed yesterday, the German War Office announced this afternoon. The report of the general staff follows:

"Western front—Attempts of the English to recapture a position south of Ypres were repulsed with sanguinary losses.

"Northwest of Lens and north of Arras we gained some successes with mines.

"A small German detachment made a night attack on Fonquevillers, north of Arras, and took a few English prisoners and one machine gun.

"South of the Somme, a French attack with fresh troops broke down, under our fire.

"On the remainder of the front there were artillery duels.

"Nocturnal enemy aerial attacks in Flanders were returned by our aviators with a bombardment of Poperinghe."

Take Lime for Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association of July 29th, 1911, Page 5001, Dr. C. F. Elser, of Minneapolis, holds that a "deficiency of calcium" (lime) is responsible for the physical conditions which lead to tuberculosis, "and the therapy he advocates rests on this basis."

One of the reasons for the widespread success of Eckman's Alterative in the treatment of tuberculosis is its ability to supply this deficiency. It contains a lime salt in such combination with other valuable agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Many cases seem to have yielded to it.

We make no exaggerated claims for it, but prefer that it be tried on the same basis as any other prescription, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists. Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.

SAYS WAS CURED BY PLANT JUICE

Proprietor of Barber Shop Gives Unqualified Testimonial for New Remedy.

Among the hundreds of statements being made in connection with Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, now being introduced here, none is of greater interest than that of Mr. Santi Panarello, who resides at No. 174 Lamartine Street, Jamaica Plain, and is proprietor of the largest barber shop in that town. He stated:

SANTI PANARELLO.

"For years I suffered with what I was told was an acid stomach, and all the food that I ate did not seem to agree with me, but would sour in my stomach and cause gas to form there. My stomach was all bloated and I suffered agony after eating. I had headaches, was very dizzy at times and had a hard lump in the pit of my stomach. I was taking soda and magnesia all the time for it, but got no relief. I could not sleep at night and gradually became very weak and all run-down. My kidneys were affected and I had shooting pains all over my body; my tongue was coated and I was very nervous. Finally I started to take Plant Juice and I am glad to state that it certainly did the work in my case, as it has put my stomach in fine shape, I sleep well at night, have no more trouble with gas, can eat anything and digest it, my kidneys are working well and I am glad to say that Plant Juice has entirely cured me. I cannot recommend it too highly."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, sick, throbbing headache, poor circulation, night sweats, that tired feeling, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Company's store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

AVOID ALL MEAT IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Uric Acid in meat excites Kidneys and irritates the Bladder.

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder weakness or Kidney Backache.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acid in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

TWO SIMULTANEOUS REVOLTS PLANNED AGAINST CARRANZA

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Official information that plans have been formulated for simultaneous revolts to start in both the north and south of Mexico today was lodged with the Department of Justice. Federal agents have under surveillance secret stores of arms and ammunition cached along the Texan border and in the northern part of Guatemala.

Behind the latest planned revolts are said to be Felix Diaz, nephew of the old dictator, and Senora Huerta, widow of the late leader who died while a prisoner of the United States at El Paso. Senora Huerta is now at El Paso and Diaz is in Los Angeles. Both are under the eyes of the Federal authorities.

Francisco Villa was in command of rebel raiders who burned several small bridges and destroyed tracks on the National railway, 100 miles south of the border, yesterday. Details of the raid received at military headquarters in Juarez revealed that about 200 men were with Villa.

Early advices yesterday stated that Villa was raiding the Hustillo ranch, seventy-five west from where yesterday's railroad raid took place.

Cavalry detachments will be sent south today to seek the bandit leader.

Get Crones' Finger Prints

Clew in Poison Banquet Case

Jean Crones' "finger prints." Reproduction of marks enclosed in letter sent to the police and signed with name of anarchist accused of poisoning guests at the banquet in honor of Archbishop Mundelein.

While the Boston and Cambridge police are continuing their search for Jean Crones, charged with attempting to poison the soup of 300 guests at a reception to Archbishop Mundelein at the University Club in Chicago last week, the New York police are certain the poisoner is in that city.

A search of restaurants in Cambridge has failed to reveal any trace of Crones. Detective Concannon of Cambridge had the name of a man who is said to have seen Crones, and says that he questioned this man and is satisfied that the man could not have seen Crones in Cambridge or at the South Station.

"From two sources information has been brought to me that Crones is in New York and that he was in Boston as recently as last Wednesday night. The Boston detectives told me over the long distance telephone that a waiter recognized Crones there and that the waiter begged that his name be kept secret for fear the anarchists would kill him. Last night Captain Tunney of New York telephoned me he had authoritative information that Crones is in or near New York."

Captain Tunney of the New York Anarchist squad today threw out a dragnet that covered every hotel and restaurant. William M. Offley, head of the special branch of the Secret Service in New York, put a squad of men on the case. Chicago police are on their way to New York to assist in the search.

In a second letter to a New York newspaper received early today, Crones flaunts the police and discloses his "finger prints." In this letter he tells why he tried to poison 300 in Chicago.

Captain Tunney said today there was no doubt the letter in his possession, signed by Crones and mailed in New York on Monday night, near the office of Mother Earth, an Anarchist publication, was written by the alleged poisoner. In it Crones boasted of his attempted crime in Chicago and scorned the police.

"The man is in New York," said Captain Tunney. "He is dangerous, and is likely to kill someone if he is not captured soon. I do not think we will have any trouble in picking him up."

The whole arm of the police departments of Chicago, New York and the Federal agents is to make a swift capture before Crones, a chemist, can deal death by poisoning food.

The kitchens of every eating place in New York are being gone over with a fine tooth comb. Employment agencies have been warned to be on the lookout for the man in case he applies for work. Anarchist societies are being watched, particularly those of the Bresci group, whose patron, the slayer of King Humbert of Italy, Crones expressed a desire to emulate.

What makes it particularly hard for the New York police is the scant description they have of the man, who is known to be given to disguises. In his letter to the New York police he informed them he had changed his hair to red, and it may be any color by this time.

If there was any doubt in the minds of the New York police that the letter received and signed by Crones was really from the man, it was dispelled after they had communicated with the office of the International Correspondence School at Scranton, Pa. Specimens of the man's handwriting are on file there through correspondence he had with the school concerning a course in chemistry.

MACK OUT TO KEEP GOING

Master Frankie Meets Tommy O'Keefe at B. M. A. A. Tonight; Prelims Are Spicy.

B. M. A. A. BOXING CARD.

Frankie Mack, Beachmont, vs. Tommy O'Keefe, Philadelphia: twelve rounds.

Eddie Flynn, Peabody, vs. "Cy" Goodwin, South End: eight rounds.

Andy Morrissey, Salem, vs. Charley Sheppard, New York: six rounds.

"Kid" Lee, Chelsea, vs. Young O'Neill, Lynn, six rounds.

Referee—Larry Conley.

Club's location—Hibernian Hall, Roxbury.

Starting time, 8 p. m.

FRANKIE MACK, the speedy Beachmont lightweight, who is stepping as deftly as any 135-pounder in New England, and who is in the thick of the running to acquire possession of good old Matty Baldwin's old crown, hooks up with Tommy O'Keefe, one of Philadelphia's busiest little gloveswomen, in the main summer on the B. M. A. A. card, Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight.

Mack and O'Keefe are to traverse the customary 12-round route, coming in at 135 pounds at 8 o'clock, it is announced, with Larry Conley in charge of their encounter.

With the Armory A. A. temporarily out of commission, the firm of Miah Murray, Ivy Lewis & Co. having determined, following the rendition of a long array of trapped flyvers at the Hippodrome, not to fling up the curtain only on such Tuesday nights as they are able to secure the proper bookings, the B. M. A. A. has the Greater Boston boxing game all to itself.

The new flutic body has played to capacity business at its past four or five performances. Weekly the S. R. O. sign is on display and the affairs are proving mighty spicy. While the B. M. A. A. is taking precious good care not to over play itself, leaving the self-acclaimed stars out of the reckoning when contesting the weekly program, it is picking the bulk of its starters with good judgment and furnishing plenty of sport.

Mack made good with a vehement vengeance in his last local start against the experienced Johnny Lustig. He's reported to have trained faithfully for his bout tonight with Tommy O'Keefe and his supporters are confident he will be landed the victor. Promoter Bernie Fenton avows that the winner will be sent against Sam Hoddam.

In the semi-windup Eddie Flynn will endeavor to knock out Cy. Goodwin. Likewise will Cy. try to attempt to stop Eddie. It smacks of a sorry go. Andy Morrissey, Salem, is pulled by "Kid" Lee, of Chelsea and Young O'Neill of Lynn, two fast traveling little fellers, are by Andy Morrissey, of the H. Mellody stable, and Charley Sheppard (he's well again) of New York.

Tex Rickard Gets Garden for Date Sought—March 25

By ED. CURLEY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—There is nothing to prevent Jess Willard from fighting Frank Moran, challenger, March 25 unless Jess succumbs to another attack of grippe. The last obstacle was removed when Harry Pollok and Jack Curley waived their lease on Madison Square Garden so that date and turned the option over to the promoters, Rickard and McCracken, who signed a new lease.

According to a telegram received today from Manager Tom Jones, Willard is confident that he will be in good enough condition to arrive here by March 1. Reports from Chicago indicate the champion is recovering from his illness and within a few days will leave for Hot Springs, Ark., to build up.

Karavich Loses to Lemle Two Falls in Row

Karl Lemle had a scrap with Karavich, the Serbian heavyweight wrestler, in their match at the Hippodrome last night. The two big fellows went on in the feature bout at George Tuohey's weekly carnival, and while Karavich was reported to be a bear-cat, with fuzz all over him, he proved as extremely poor opponent for Lemle.

Lemle was at his best form and quickly disposed of the elephantine foreigner in straight falls. It took Karl 11 minutes 10 seconds to flop Karavich the first time. The second and deciding fall came in 1 minute 50 seconds.

Hilmer Johnson, going on for "Soldier" Leavitt against Franz Heckman, almost had his cranium split open as a result of being thrown in the first encounter. Tuohey thought it advisable for Hilmer to retire for good, which he did without entering any strenuous objections. Joe Willis won from Vasile Ispasa in a two fall match, while Charley Byers disposed of Johnny Ierardi.

Tuohey intends to have two masked wrestlers on the program, but when he said that he, too, would mask Mrs. Tuohey spoiled the idea by informing him it would be the first time in his life he looked good to her. So, George stayed off.

RING REMARKS

EDDIE MOORE of Pawtucket, Freddie Yelle's manager, writes the AMERICAN stating that his best bet has met Joe Phillips three times and made a punching bag out of him in each start. Hence, he does not see why he should pay any attention to Peter McIlroy of Providence; in fact, he suavely asks, "Who is Peter?"

"KID McDONALD of Roslindale knocked out Phillips in four rounds, which should prove Phillips' class," adds Moore.

IF Moore's claim that Yelle has the cleanest slate of any New England lightweight since the days of George Dixon, Freddie Welsh and Charley White are the only ones beating Fred, says Moore.

"YELLE has never met Frankie Mack, Eddie Murphy or Gilbert Gallant," lots down Moore, "and I hereby dare those three near-welters to take a chance with the New England champion. Let them post forfeits with the AMERICAN and I'll rapidly follow suit."

TOMMY McKEEFE, the Philadelphia lightweight, who is to box Frankie Mack at the B. M. A. A. show tonight, reached Boston yesterday afternoon. Mack, the club's matchmaker, says Tommy is in the pink of trim and looks for him to give the Beachmont Bearcat the stiffest sort of tussle.

W. J. HERRICK of Gardner writes the AMERICAN accepting John Foss' challenge on behalf of "Kid" Holduc, whom he has billed as New England's lightweight wrestling champion. Herrick wants the match, if framed, to be settled on the winner-take-all basis.

LOUIS KANTER is out with a dcf to all the N. E. 115-pounders on behalf of Nick Albanese, who gave Young Nonpareil Mack several pounds, likewise several inches, and then made him beat it at last week's B. M. A. A. show. Murphy, Tony Lorenzo and Tommy Flanagan are the youths Kanter especially wants to hear from.

KANTER also has Elle Valley in tow and seeks scraps with the 120-pound battlers.

CHARLEY SWINEHART writes from Philadelphia stating that his lightweight title is safe, Jimmy Murphy, held his own in his scrap with Johnny Dundee last week. Also, that Jimmy meets Benny Leonard in Quakerdom next Monday night.

ANDOVER PICKS GOWANS.

Andover, Feb. 18.—John Gowans, '19, centre on this season's Andover hockey seven, has been elected captain for 1916.

"THE RABBITS" COLUMN By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Meetings of leagues will soon be over and the decks cleared for the real game of baseball. Of course, the conduct of the business of the game is all important, still it strikes me the fans must be getting hungry for some real stuff about the players; how they look, what they do and the prospects of developing new material.

* * *

These gatherings will soon have completed their work leaving the stage to the ball players. It has been a rather eventful Winter, with its peace program, new owners and the new league here in New England. This by the way, looks to be a mighty good proposition for the game.

* * *

That two or three weeks' visit to The Meadows, George Stallings' plantation, at Haddock, Ga., will do the twirlers a whole lot of good. I am waiting anxiously to hear what the verdict is on James. Hoss George will get the limit with the big pitcher, for if there is a chance for him to come back, the Boss will take it.

* * *

Well, there goes another catcher the Braves looked for; and Wilson lands in Pittsburgh. Rickey says he had to pick up, more especially if you are a club that looks pretty strong for the pennant. You can bet the other clubs are not going to hand the Braves anything. We look too formidable as we are.

* * *

If Robert McIlroy proves to be one of the new owners of the Cleveland club the fans of that city will welcome a good fellow, a clever baseball man and one who will do all in his power to make the club a success. Long association with President B. B. Johnson has given McIlroy a clear insight into the business. While he is not what is known as a "miser," Robert will sure be recognized for his merits as a man, particularly a baseball man.

* * *

Each of the New York clubs look pretty good, and Brooklyn must not be overlooked. If Manager Robinson can perform the miracle of bringing back to form Marquard and Cheney, or do as well as he did with Coombs, just figure that Dodger pitching staff as being there.

* * *

It has been more than a week since anything has been said about either the Red Sox or Cardinals being placed on the market. Perhaps these teams will go to the post with their present owners in command.

* * *

This talk of club sales is another feature of Winter baseball which grows tiresome. Those mentioned as prospective buyers are the only ones benefited. They get the advertising they couldn't buy; such is the power of the magic word baseball.

* * *

Hank Gowdy will have an opportunity to renew old acquaintances in Macon prior to his trip to Miami. Hammering Hank was quite a social favorite in the former training camp of the Braves.

* * *

The Boston College baseball schedule is a strong one and gives Bill Sweeney a chance to show what he can do as a coach. With anything like good material, look out for this college nine. Bill will get together with his men at a smoker tonight.

* * *

I have cut out my work as steamfitter and am resting up for the work which starts at Miami March 6.

FOUR-FOOTER HERO OF TRACK BATTLE

Master Jeff Powers, a mite of a boy, barely standing four feet in height, carried off the honors in the dual track meet between South Boston High and Charlestown High. He ran for South Boston in the junior division and placed the 160-yard run to his credit. Thornton of South Boston annexed the senior 300-yard run, and shotput. The meet, with competition in three divisions, ended in a hollow victory for South Boston High, 129 to 36.

WASHBURN-DABNEY BEATEN IN DOUBLES

New York, Feb. 18.—Wylie C. Grant, five times holder of the championship, and Eric H. Maa, Jr., former Yale champion, are contestants in the semi-finals in the national in-door tennis championship tournament. Watson M. Washburn and Alfred S. Dabney, two former Harvard stars, were beaten in the second round in the doubles event with M. Lovibond and William Rosenbaum.

RACQUET STARS ON HAND FOR TOURNEY

Up goes the curtain on the national racquet championship tournament on the Tennis and Racquet Club courts. Three matches are carded for today, while four will compete tomorrow's program. Today's pairings:

11 a. m.—A. A. Thorne, University club of Chicago, vs. R. C. Clark, Tennis and Racquet Club.

12 noon—F. G. Mortimer, Tuxedo, vs. C. Hutchins, Tennis and Racquet.

2 p. m.—Hewitt Morgan, Rudolph Court, vs. S. W. Cabot, Tennis and Racquet.

ST. JOHN'S L. I. FIVE BOWL OVER CADETS

The St. John's L. I. basketball five covered itself with glory before a big crowd at Institute Hall, East Cambridge, last night, by giving the First Corps Cadets their first defeat of the season, 37-5. Heffron, Flinn and Connell fairly electrified the Cadets by their rapid play. Hose showed the best form for the losers.

HAHN NAMES TEAM GOING TO HARTFORD

Providence, Feb. 18.—Coach Archie Hahn of the Brown track team announces that, as a result of the time made by the relay team in the B. A. A. this week, Halloran, Dunn, Pollard, Kellogg and Isaacs will be taken to Hartford, Ct., Monday, to run in the relay against Dartmouth at the Armory meet.

Both Keough and Litchfield will start in the mile run, while White has been entered in the 75-yard dash. Pollard, who promises to create as big a sensation on the track as he did on the gridiron, will compete in the high hurdles if the event is not put on too near the relays. Murphy will run in either the 300 or 600-yard event.

Brown will only enter its relay team in the I. C. A. A. meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, March 4. There is a possibility Coach Hahn may start two teams.

ZBYSZKO SIGNS FOR GO WITH HUSSANE

Waldek Zbyszko and Youssuf Hussane, the two foreign mat monstrosities, have been rematched by Promoter George Tuohey for a finish match, catch-as-catch-can style, in Mechanics Building next Wednesday night. It will be a continuation of their great dead heat Christmas night, the only draw match in main events Tuohey has had in years.

There will be but one preliminary, and that will be limited, so that Zbyszko and Hussane will take the mat no later than 9:45, thus insuring plenty of time to settle the question of supremacy between them.

BOSTON LATIN TOO GOOD FOR M. A. TEAM

Boston Latin's track squad proved its complete superiority over Mechanic Arts in their dual meet, making connections, 25½-26½. Hall, DeLue and Cutler were the point winners for Boston Latin, while Chin scored for Mechanic Arts. The 50-yard dash ended in a tie between Holster, Boston Latin, and Oberacker, M. A., while Hanlin, Boston Latin, and Sheehan, M. A., finished on even terms in the high jump.

Referee Punches Foul Fighter in N.Y. Ring

New York, Feb. 18.—Lew Sandalli, unattached, probably will never box again in A. A. U. competition as the result of his action in a bout with Billy Murray, New West Side A. C., in the 130-pound class of the amateur boxing tournament held at the New York A. C. last night.

He deliberately kicked Murray in the groin in the third round, after he saw that he was getting the worst of the battle. Referee Schwengler was quick to notice the foul and rushed at Sandalli and knocked him through the ropes with a left swing to the jaw.

RING RESULTS

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—"Dick" Nash of Cleveland, substituting for Pete Hanley, clearly bested Tommy Moore of Providence in their twelve-round bout at the Y. M. C. A. Club. Dumpsy of South Boston, boxed rings around "Buddy" Dolan of Lawrence in the eight-round semi-windup.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 18.—Reddie McDonald of Glace Bay gained the decision over Joe Clark of Gloucester in a slow, but rough, fifteen-round battle.

CANCELS HARVARD DATE.

New York, Feb. 18.—The New York City College swimming team has canceled its date with Harvard.

Willard Better Regrets Having to Muss Moran Up

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Jess Willard's condition continued to improve today, but the champion was far from well enough to resume training for his coming bout with Frank Moran in New York. Tom Jones said today that the champion would not hurry long in Chicago after he was able to travel.

When Willard was informed that Frank Moran had declined the $2,500 forfeit because the bout is not to be staged on March 8, original date, he said,

"I'll hate to muss that fellow up after he has been so nice about the forfeit."

PAIR OF MEETS FOR BROWN GRAPPLERS

Providence, Feb. 18.—Captain Ray Ward and Taber, who won their matches in the dual meet with Harvard, together with Colly, Davenport, Sheffield, Mowbeney and Curry, will represent Brown in tomorrow's meet with Springfield Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield. Tech calls next Friday.

Langford Shades McVey, While Crowd Boos

New York, Feb. 18.—Sam Langford, the Boston Tar-Baby, outpointed Sam McVey at Lor Angeles, in their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night in a scrap that once or twice looked good, but, on the whole, was also and unsatisfactory. At the end of the nicest the two brunettes were slipped a fine "booing" by the spectators and requested to tell the date of their next act.

Only on two occasions did Langford seem to let himself out and at those times he looked the Langford of old. But after showing what he could do, the Boston Tar-Baby settled down, seemingly content to outpoint Big Sam.

McVey relied on a snappy left to slather points, but hit with an open glove, slapped, and at no time bothered Little Sam. A very slim crowd turned out.

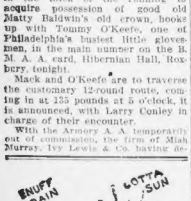
TANK SHOW AT REVERE.

A dual meet between the L Street Swimmers' Club and the East Boston S. C., will be held tonight in the Revere tank. Sprints, diving, plunging and a polo game complete the program.



Where are they going?

SCHOOL STARS MEET

Over 250 Athletes to Compete in Huntington Interscholastic Games Tomorrow.

Racing such as has not been seen in scholastic track meets this year, is due at the Huntington School interscholastic meet at the Boston Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon. At that time nearly 250 of the best schoolboy athletes will come to scratch in the various events.

As neither Worcester Academy, Exeter or Huntington School are allowed to take part in the meet, confining it to high schools only, competition is bound to be keen. Newton High, Medford High and English High, which have shown strong dual meet teams, are entered, as are practically all the other high and preparatory schools of the State.

More than a dozen relay races have been arranged, the feature race of the afternoon is to be that between Newton High and English High. Both institutions have a quartet of more than passing ability and should come close to track figures for the event.

45 ENTRIES IN DASH.

Dowder Point vs. Dummer Academy, Medford High vs. Dean Academy, Brookline High vs. Hyde Park and Boston College High vs. Dorchester High are just a few of the other evenly matched team races which have a prominent place on the program.

The 45 entries in the 50-yard dash has been sifted into six heats. Walcott Winchenbaugh of Hyde Park, who went through to the semi-finals in the Coast Artillery meet; Murphy of Lynn Classical, Munro, Maroney and Blair of Medford, Snyder of Charles Aris and Woodworth of Newton and Monagle and Dorey of English High are the pick of the field.

In the 300-yard run, pole winners in the Scholastic, third and fourth heats respectively, are Arnold of Watertown, Minetto of Powder Point, Higgins of Boston College High and Lang of Boston College High.

Blair of Medford, the favorite, drew second position in the second heat. Another, looked upon as having a better than even chance is "Cop" Woodworth of Newton, is back in the second row of the third heat. He will have to travel fast to get through on a field.

A great chance to get a line on the relative merits of the leading schoolboy 600 and 1,000- yarders will be given at tomorrow's meet. Four of the champions, Brigham of English High School and Adams of Newton, were held lucky in taking the number from the hat. In the first heat the English High captain will be up against Silverthorne, Chandler drew a hot position in the following trial. Kramer of Dummer Academy, who made a splendid showing in the games a year ago, is way back in the rear row of the second trial.

McDermott of Stoneham, Duggan of Chelsea, Preston of Somerville, Westel Greene of Powder Point, every one a miler of better than 5-minute ability, will make this one of the feature races of the afternoon

MIDGET IN JUMP.

Another classy field is down in the high jump. Roberts, Newton's all-around performer, and Pierce, the midget, who jumps many inches higher than his head, Sheehan and Kmerey of Mechanic Arts, Wyrebaugh of Hyde Park, Dempsey of Boston College High and Ring of Lynn Classical should put the bar well on toward the six-foot mark before determining a winner.

Regular A. A. U. officials will serve, and the first rail for the 50-yard dash will be given at 2 o'clock.

The relay races will count as they do in the B. A. A. schoolboy games. Those rules which govern the Thanksgiving meet also hold for the Huntington School games. This ruling resulted in the disqualification of such sterling men as Phillips and Fraser of Powder Point, and Pelletier of St. John's Prep.

B. C. STUDENTS TO WELCOME SWEENEY

Boston College undergraduates get their first chance to hear Coach "Bill" Sweeney, former captain of the Braves, discussion at the "smoker," which the Junior Class is to hold this evening at Boston College High gym. The other speakers include President Lannin of the Red Sox, Arthur Cooper, former big leaguer; Captain Joe Dee and Manager John Mitchell.

The arrangement committee is formed of Frank Flaherty of South Boston, chairman; James Slattery of Halifax, N. S., John W. Fihelly of Plymouth, George D. Day of Brookline and Frank Keanue of Cambridge. In addition to the entertaining the college orchestra and Glee Club will be heard in selections.

JOHNSON EXPECTS BIG YEAR

Looks for Greater Receipts and Faster Games; Fast Youngsters Will Make Vets Hustle.

By FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, today predicted that the 1916 season will be one of the best in the entire history of the national game.

Not only is there a promise of increased receipts for magnates, but there also is the certainty that the game itself will be from 20 to 30 per cent faster," said Johnson. "Last year at the close before the players did not put their whole heart and soul into the running of the game.

The players felt that they had the Federal League as a club to use over the heads of the magnates. Most of the salaries were covered with long term contracts. That made their jobs safe in their opinion until such contracts expired. They figured that the Federal League would last until the end if organized baseball did not want to recognize the Federals would let those players.

With all that is changed now. The players realize that their club owners have cash from them or else they must deliver the goods or out they go. A year ago there was not enough talent to supply the three leagues.

Now that the Federals have ceased to exist, and a lot of lively looking youngsters have come up from the bushes, it means that the 1915 regulars in the American and National leagues will have to hustle to hold their jobs.

The annual Spring meeting of the American League opened at the Hotel Walcott at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and less than three hours later a majority of the club owners were on their way back home.

After adopting the playing schedule the magnates took up the new drive scale framed by Charles H. Ebbets, owner of the Dodgers, which the National League adopted.

The American League scale didn't think well of the plan to give the tail-end club first pick, and as a result of addtracking the proposition, referred it back to the National Commission.

175 OUT FOR ELI CREWS

Prominent Among Select Are Scions of Wealthy Harriman and Rockefeller Families.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 18—Among the 175 candidates who have reported for the varsity and freshman crew squads are two members of prominent American families—William Averil Rockefeller and Edward Roland Noel Harriman.

Both are oarsmen of experience and are likely to be found on the Yale varsity or second eights which meet Harvard next June.

Harriman, a son of the late Edward H. Harriman, the railway king came to Yale with a fine record established at Groton School. He was a member of the freshman crew two years ago but the death of his father while hunting last Winter did not row last Spring. He was a member of the Yale varsity eight, which met Columbia last Fall.

His brother, William Averill Harriman, was a Yale freshman and varsity aquad oarsman, and served as varsity head coach three years ago. He is now a member of the Yale graduate rowing committee.

Edward Harriman is twenty years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 187 pounds.

Rockefeller is a son of William G. Rockefeller, Yale '92, and a grandson of William Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller's brother. His brother Percy Avery, was president of the Yale Football Association in 1908. William Avery Rockefeller was a member of the Yale freshman crew last season. He is nineteen years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighs 187 pounds. Before coming to Yale he was an excellent oar at St. Paul's School.

The Rockefeller and Harriman are a trifle light for the waist of the varsity boat, but Harriman has gested it bow in the race against Columbia and gave an excellent account of himself.

Yale has the largest list of races scheduled in its history the coming season. The second crew is listed for three starts and the varsity four, with Harriman and Rockefeller as well as a score of other promising reserve oarsmen, have plenty of work ahead.

Big Regatta May Yet Be Held on the Hudson

New York, Feb. 18—The question of just where the next Intercollegiate rowing association regatta will be held is still open. If the railway officials can see their way clear to run an observation train on either June 30 or July 1, the race will be rowed at Poughkeepsie. Otherwise the chances are strong that it will be rowed on the still waters of Lake Cayuga at Ithaca.

Morton G. Bogue, chairman of the board of stewards of the association announced today that he expected to hear from the railroad during the next day or so. He and others of the committee hope that the race can be rowed on the Hudson, where it has been held each year since 1895.

Meanwhile those who a week ago thought the changes to Lake Cayuga a good one are very inclined to look at the matter in a different light. Jim Rice, Columbia coach, who thought the change would help rowing, now believes it will be just as well to stay at Poughkeepsie and row upstream instead of down.

The early date, June 17, decided upon last week has been condemned because the Pennsylvania squad and some others would find it impossible to get away at that time. Consequently chances are strong that the race will be rowed on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie either on June 30 or July 31. This depends, however, on the ability of the road to run observation trains.

AL SHUBERT CLOSE TO REQUIRED NOTCH

New Bedford, Feb. 18—Al Shubert, the New Bedford bantamweight, who meets Champion Johnny Ertle of St. Paul in a ten-round battle for the title here next Tuesday night, stepped the scales at 117 pounds after winding up his training yesterday. It is Manager Johnny Miller's claim that Shubert won't have the slightest bit of trouble making 116 pounds ringside, the weight agreed upon and for which both sides have posted a $500 forfeit. Orders for tickets are pouring in from all over New England. A delegation of at least 500 boxing fans is expected from Boston.

WALKERS TO COVER A TEN-MILE COURSE

The third of a series of cross-country walks, under the auspices of the Boston Y. M. C. U. and Boston Y. M. C. A., will be held tomorrow, starting from the Y. M. C. A. building, No. 316 Huntington avenue, at 2:30 p. m. The party will be in charge of D. M. Claghorn, Director of Social Work at the Y. M. C. A.

This walk over a ten-mile course, is for both men and women, and all wishing to take part are invited to be at the starting place without going through any preliminaries.

AMATEUR BOXERS ON WAY TO DENMARK

New York, Feb. 18—John Kaplanski, Cleveland, A. C., lightweight champion; John Maloney, St. Rita's C. C., Philadelphia, featherweight champion, and William Spengler, Union Settlement A. C., New York, lightheavyweight champion, the A. A. U. boxers who are to compete in the international tournament at Copenhagen, sailed on the Oscar II. yesterday.

DAVIES TELLS MACK DONE WITH GAME

Lloyd (Chick) Davies the Peabody boy, who played with "Connie" Mack's Athletics last season, has written his boss stating that he has decided to quit the business and his ball playing days. Davies alternated between the infield and outfield for the Athletics and bounced up as a mighty promising recruit.

BASKETBALL NEWS--NOTES

WHEN the St. Alphonsus and Phelan Ian Fhive clash the latter organization will be without the services of George Renkert and "Tacks" Connell. Despite this followers of the Phelan bunch can rest assured that Manager Hill will do his utmost to land a capable pair to fill their positions.

DOLAN and Coff, of the Phelans, are a clever pair of baseball players during the Summer months. Last season they were with the strong Hostindale team and Gibbons, another of the five, was a star with the Brookside. These players contend that basketball keeps them in condition for the baseball season.

* * *

THE Gray Ghosts, of the Eliot square section, are without a game for the night of February 21. They are anxious to hear from some strong 95-100 pound team without looking for that night. These are also several open dates during the month of March and managers would do well to communicate with George R. Kenney at No. 114 Cedar street, Roxbury.

* * *

IF any of the girls enjoying mem-bership in 115-120 pound basketball teams are without dates they can be accommodated by addressing Mrs Alexander Wright at 687 Shawmut avenue. Mrs Wright manages the Arenas of which team Miss Beatrice Fitzallen is the captain.

THE Collins Five of South Boston is anxious to arrange games with six 95-100 pound teams in the State. To date they have won eight straight victories. G. Riegel, of 57 Spring street, the manager, announces that half fares are given and expected.

* * *

IN the morning mail was a commu-nication from the secretary and manager of the Gladiator A. A. Five announcing that his team is looking for games. W. C. Matthews, the former Harvard baseball and football player, is coaching the Gladiators. They lay claim to the colored championship of New England and are willing to dispute for even the national title. In two years they have played 46 games and lost but five. Any teams desiring games with them can communicate with Norbert H. Dupuy at 31 Westminster street, Providence.

NEW ORGANIZATION IS EASTERN LEAGUE

The little old New England League has passed into history. With five cities from its former membership and five cities from the Eastern Association, the new league known as the Eastern League was formed. On February 24 at the Cooley House, Springfield, the members will gather to perfect the organization. At this time a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer will be elected. Meanwhile a committee will soon confer with and one upon schedule will become active.

TUFTS PILOT WILL GET BRAVE TRYOUT

Bernard Lee, Tufts College baseball captain the past two years and a third baseman of rare promise is to go South with the Braves. Jack Slattery has assured George Stallings that he won't make any mistake in giving Lee a thorough trial, and the Braves manager will act on the coach's tip. Lee played in the Twin State League last season and amassed a .342 batting average. He hails from Granby, Vt.

Crimson to Send Seven Runners to Hartford

Harvard will enter a team of seven men in the military track meet to be held at Hartford, Ct., February 21. All the men making the trip will be runners and they will be accompanied by Coach O'Pooch" Donovan, Manager Fred Clement and Trainer O'Leary.

The banner relay event of the Winter season should result when Harvard's speedy traveling 440-yard quarter will meet Pennsylvania, headed by the peerless Ted Meredith. Time trials for the Harvard four were held Tuesday and the times for the six fastest quarters were within 2-5 of a second of each other. The quartet which will try and outfoot the fast Quakers will consist of Eddie Taschner, Westmore Willcox, Tom Pennypacker and Captain Bingham. The Harvard leader is going to have the time of his young life when pitted as anchor man against Ted Meredith, and if the runners start their turn at "evens," Bingham may show up the Pennsylvanian in the battle to the tape just as he did Captain Overton of Yale at the B. A. A. games.

Meredith, however, is expected to come in the quarter a full inch inches and will make Bingham move some since the latter has specialized only in the 880-yards in the past two seasons.

Alexander Biddle and Henry Minot will also go to Hartford and run in the 600-yard run, while Rollo Campbell is entered in the 1,000-yard event.

HARRY SMITH TO GO SOUTH WITH YANKS

New York, Feb. 18—Harry Smith, the veteran catcher, who was with the Brookfelds last season, is to be taken South by Manager Donovan of the Yankees. If Donovan is pleased form he will be tendered a satisfactory contract.

NO MIXED BATTLES TO GO IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 18. The State Athletic Commission at its meeting yesterday voted not to rescind the rule to permit mixed bouts. Joe Woodman of Boston, manager of Sam Langford, states that he may institute legal proceedings to test the legality of the rule.

UNLESS the Distons' grounds are in good condition by Friday morning the twice postponed American cup match with the Fall River Rovers will not take place. In fact the game might be held over for two weeks more as the Diestons management are anxious to try and accommodate the Rovers on a day that will be impossible to clear above expenses, why the contest is played.

* * *

MANAGER JOHNNY BEDFORD of Diestons intends to put as strong a team in the field against the Rovers believing that the recently warrant it, he has recently signed up a couple of star forwards.

Drastic Economies In Europe Will Force People There to Abandon Luxuries, Says Forbes, and They Will Be Much Cheaper In the United States

U. S. SOON TO BE SOLE LUXURY MARKET

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Feb. 15.—You will be able to have most luxuries cheaper before long.

America will shortly be the only great market for them.

The rest of the world will be glad to get here necessities.

The drastic industrial economies Europe will take to the prohibition of imports of luxuries.

Prosperity and enhanced earnings of wholesale consumptive of necessaries are already pronounced manufacturing, especially in Britain.

Instead of causing concern will now be applied.

In my opinion the authorities will deal with the situation wisely.

* * *

The British Government have spent their enormous earnings not as profligate in order to conserve every penny for public use, but as billionaires enjoying shore leave.

The government has been most grievously disappointed over this. Try as it might, it could not persuade the working classes to save money and invest it in war loans.

Germany mustered small subscriptions to war loans by the millions, Britain by the hundreds.

Yet wages have advanced more in Britain than in any other country.

* * *

The new tactics I am convinced will be carried to heights not yet suspected either by Bolshevism or by American financial and business men.

The attitude should be analyzed, painstakingly by American manufacturers of goods likely to come under the ban, since fierce competition may mean heavy losses.

Any American company or firm which can ship extensive supplies of luxuries or semi-luxuries now, should do so before the impending barriers are erected.

Within six months the character of imports into Europe is likely to change radically.

* * *

It is clear that the cities are now preparing for long wars and hopes of a near settlement must manifestly have been abandoned.

This being so, finance becomes as vital as men.

There is a limit to the amount of money Britain, France and Belgium could send here or raise here.

That limit is by no means in sight, nor is it expected by the leading American financiers ever to be reached.

But prudence will dictate precautions by these nations.

The most important, the most feasible and the most natural precaution, doubtless will take the form of forbidding over-sea purchases of things not actually necessary for the health and well-being of the population.

By stopping the importation—and, later, all practically—of luxuries, which sale—of near-necessaries, there will be available an enormous amount of money for use in necessities.

The government will then seize to attract a share of the surplus for public uses.

* * *

And I rather think that if war loan subscriptions are not forthcoming voluntarily, ways and means will be devised to force the people to lend and invest in war loans or to pay heavy taxes on their excess profits.

The new policy is of great importance to international finance, to American business and to the general outlook.

Drink Hot Water If You Desire a Rosy Complexion

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste and poisonous fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just an cool, when hot water is drunk behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave the intestinal waste organs a certain amount of indigestible material which, if not eliminated, forms toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to use as the only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin grow clear and rosy and clear, you are told to drink every morning upon arising a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and poisons from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation, should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are advised of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.—Advertisement.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were firm in New York at noon and the market had a strong undertone. After a recession in the first hour prices showed an upward tendency, and this maintained during the rest of the morning. The price range was narrow with the exception of a few issues. Morning sales did not alter the speculative situation to any extent.

Gains in New York at 12 o'clock included Amazonia 8, Chino 8, Utah 8, Willys-Overland 2, Marine preferred certificates 2, American Can 1½, Butte & Superior 1, Reading ½, New Haven ½ and Canadian Pacific ½.

Among declines were New York Central ¼ and Baldwin ½.

Coppers showed as much improvement as any class during the morning. The strength of Shannon certificates sustained the opinion that most of the bad news in that issue is over. The early reaction was felt most by a number of war and other stocks which especially appeal to those to receive the most were Maxwell, Studebaker, Baldwin and Mexican Petroleum.

In Boston at noon gains included Goldfield Con. 1¾, Butte & Superior ¾, Calumet & Arizona ¾, Copper Range ¾, Granby ¾, Osceola ¾, Quincy ¾, U. S. Smelting, Utah Copper and Utah Metal ¼.

Among declines were Boston & New York & New Haven ¾ and United Shoe ¾. The local market was dull, but was fairly steady throughout the morning.

OPENED QUIET AND FIRM.

Stocks were quiet in New York at the opening and ruled a little higher. What change happened was towards a higher level. There was not much activity during the opening hour. Most of the business was in a few industrial or specialties. Marine preferred certificates began with ⅞ gain and soon sold at 1 point above the previous advance. Industrial Alcohol was a strong feature, with Baldwin Locomotive, Baldwin and Mexican Petroleum were strong. Zincs obtained much attention. American Smelting touched 88 and Butte & Superior 93½. Both were highest record prices. Anaconda was also in demand, but soon lagged behind part of the gain. Chino was ¼ off from the opening. Rail Steel opened unchanged. Stocks were not freely offered and it did not require much demand to send them up. Traders were of the opinion that a rally was due. They were inclined to think the latter phase of the international situation had had about all the bearish influence it was entitled to for the present.

Among issues to advance the most was Cuban-American Sugar. It gained 5⅜ on its first sale. At the end of half an hour the market was weaker, the majority of issues showing losses, with the trend of gains to decline appeared to be lacking in all directions. The weakness was not severe, however, and prevailed so far this week was very apparent.

Trading was very narrow in Boston at the start and for a few minutes afterwards. Zincs and Ventura Oil being the most active issues. Shares in Butte & Superior and Calumet & Arizona were off ¾, up ⅛, and then sold up ¾, up ⅛, and later touched 94, up ⅛, and later touched 94.

MAY AFFECT EXPORT TRADE.

The export trade of this country will be directly affected by the prohibition order to a great extent, by the proclamation forbidding the importation of a number of articles into Germany, which goes into effect March 1. The object is to curtail expenditures of foreign money in that country as much as possible.

The financial strain put upon Great Britain by the war has compelled the government to trying to prevent all foreign waste of money and includes spending of for luxuries which can wait to be stopped.

American tobacco concerns and growers will be affected by the prohibition list, as ninety per cent of the 100,000,000 pounds annually exported to Britain comes from this country. There is talk of putting duties on Cuban sugar, which would also hurt the United States.

More than half of Great Britain's foreign supply, which come it is 1,000,000 a year, comes from America. Canned goods, including fruits and salmon, may go upon the list of forbidden imports.

Regarding British intentions, a London cablegram states that a prominent American diplomat has received a list of prohibited articles it is merely the interim report of a board of which Great Britain intends to control absolutely all overseas trade.

MUST RAISE MUCH MONEY.

Great as Britain's war expenditures are now it is believed they will steadily increase and that the financial needs of the British public that the financial need will bear heavily upon all classes. Everybody in Britain is expecting a large increased taxation.

That new existing is expected to produce $2,000,000,000 in revenue for the next financial year, which begins March 31. A big government loan also will be offered to the public before long, but there is disposition to delay it as much as possible.

There is increasing probability that after the war Great Britain will greatly change its attitude in regard to taxes upon imports. A cablegram from the London financial expert, for Associated Newspapers says:

"It is agreed there will be increased and fresh taxes on all imported luxuries, AS THERE IS NOW A GENERAL CLAMOR FOR ABANDONING FREE TRADE PRINCIPLES."

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The latest Bank of England statement, for the week ending, 1914, showed the proportion of reserve to liabilities increasing from 24.21 per cent to 27.21 per cent in a week. It gained $2,700,000 in gold.

Exports from New York last week totalled $25,561,448, compared with $41,018,513 for the corresponding week in 1916, and $19,911,234 for the corresponding week in 1915. Of the 1917 ten weeks exports of explosives and firearms totalled $53,827,128.

It is estimated that 1916 profits of the Lackawanna Steel Company should total more than thirty per cent. of the capital stock. Dividends of 10 per cent are expected to pass upon the dividend question when next month.

MOVE TO CHANGE LAW ON DIRECTORS

Washington, Feb. 15.—Bankers interested in United States are starting a movement to bring about the altering of the Clayton anti-trust law, so as to remove the provision which forbids interlocking bank directors, contained in that measure. Under the Clayton law, all interlocking directors must relinquish their positions next Fall. The test should be made before that time, bankers say, on which the directors are interlocked, compete.

Money Market.

The Boston call rate is 3 per cent. Time rates are 2 to 2¼ per cent. for commercial paper for four to six months, according to the character of the names and collateral. Outside commercial paper is nominally 3 to 3½ per cent. for six months.

In New York, money on call rules at 1¾ per cent. Time rates are 2½ to 2¾ per cent. for 60 days, 2¾ per cent. for 90 days, 3 to 3¼ per cent. for four months, 3 per cent. for five and six months.

The commercial paper market is quiet, with the choicest moving at 3 per cent.

Sterling exchange is quiet. Cables opened at $4.76⅝ and demand $4.76.

Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 15.—Cotton opened easier today with prices of the active months down 5 to 8 points, while September sold down 10 points. Spot houses were buyers and there was covering of shorts. No demand from outside quarters was noted and the selling was quite general.

Cotton opening—March, 11.45; April 11.56 bid, May 11.68, June 11.70 bid, July 11.85, August 11.95 bid, September 12.02, October 12.05, December 12.22, January 12.27.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Wheat opened ¼c higher. Corn opened ¼c higher and oats were unchanged. Provisions were higher.

Grain opening—Wheat, May 1.29¾; July 1.22⅜. Corn, May 78⅜; July 73⅜. Oats, May 48⅜; July 45⅜. Lard, May 10.22. Ribs, 11.50.

VAST NEW WAR LOANS LOOKED FOR HERE

By BOERSIANER.

What are known as "bohtail pools" played a battledore and shuttlecock with a few of the war stocks, including the Texas Company. In Crucible Steel the play had a fair breadth, between 82¾ and 79¾; in Maxwell Common a little broader, 2¾ points; in Texas Company still wider, between 210 and 206. Baldwin Locomotive and Mexican Petroleum were also affected.

There was outside participation on the part of the professionals who, finding the rails firm and the standard industrials insusceptible of profitable pressure, trailed in the lively skirmishes of the list as above mentioned.

* * *

That is another way of saying that market levelers, as a whole, found the market unyielding and, therefore, conflicting their interests relative to issues where the ups and downs do not signify, have no bearing on the situation.

* * *

The gossip—Washington, foreign and other wise—which accompanied these insignificant operations, was of feeble interest. It was the dullness and fatigue on the part of the investor.

* * *

Some day when the market becomes even more jaded the time will have to do with the advance in the dividend rate on National Lead Common from 2 to 3 per share, on a quarterly basis. Considering the conditions and the character of the company's business, the lift was modest. The New York Air Brake directors did better, by doubling the dividend rate.

* * *

While the turnover in the stock list was somewhat below normal, bonds displayed activity. Sales ran above the total transactions rose to $3,328,000 and over the counter.

In addition to the $2,500,000,000 soon to be offered by Great Britain, Russia will shortly float a loan of $1,000,000,000 and will pay 5 per cent., which is 1 per cent. more than she paid under the preceding loan of $500,000,000.

A relatively minor transaction for $20,000,000 will be negotiated in Japan by the Russian government, in payment for war supplies and deficiencies in that country.

* * *

Finally, the Bankers of Copenhagen, a reliable authority, owned and controlled by Germany, declares that Germany is preparing to float a fourth loan in the same amount as the next British, to-wit: $2,500,000,000.

* * *

The first, second and third German loans were placed successively on a receding interest-bearing basis, while the rates on the British and French loans increased.

In the case of Great Britain the next offering is not unlikely to be at a lower rate of interest, because the financial position in London has greatly improved meanwhile.

Money is become more plentiful and cheaper there. The minima on a number of important securities have been published.

How justified the recent criticisms of Germany's fiscal status have been, and how it is shown up in the figures, puts his next bond omission on the German market, for Germany's bonds are essentially internal.

Motor Notes.

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Premier Motor Corporation of Indianapolis is to take an active part in racing affairs the coming season. "Bob" Burman has been engaged as the captain of the team, and he will drive a new car in the Indianapolis speedway races of May 30.

* * *

The high prices that were in force on the Chicago Speedway the last year will not prevail the coming season, as the management has determined to place the speedway among the popular priced resorts. By that it is not meant that decidedly low prices will prevail, but it will be possible this year to get good seats and admission for as little as $1 to $10, the latter price being charged for box seats.

The Safety-First Society of New York has recommended the appointment of a State traffic commissioner, who shall study traffic propositions and make recommendations to the Governor regarding the best way of revising the present highway law and the drafting of a uniform set of rules applicable throughout the State to vehicular traffic.

PEOPLE GET SHORT WEIGHT IN FLOUR

In a statement today, William H. Dunn of Malden, sealer of weights and measures, declared millers and wholesale dealers of flour were cheating purchasers of 49 pounds in a barrel on a large scale. He said he made his statement after a lengthy investigation of Malden stores, which was concluded today. In his investigation he found very few bags of flour up to weight.

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT'S ARGUMENT AGAINST THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW IS NOT CONCLUSIVE

PRESIDENT HOWARD ELLIOTT of the New Haven Railroad declares that if the demand of the railroad employes for shorter hours of labor is granted it will increase the cost of living by limiting production.

Mr. Elliott may be right, and he may be wrong. But in any contingency this is not conclusive argument against the wisdom of granting this demand of the railroad employes.

Of course, if all other things remain fixed, to decrease the hours of labor would mean an increase in the cost of railroad business, which would have to be met by the public through increases in carfares and freight rates, or through a decrease in the quality of service which the railroad renders to the public.

But in this day of wonderful inventions, of wonderful organizings, of increasing general intelligence, it is not necessary to assume that all other conditions affecting the railroad business will remain fixed and unchangeable. There are a great many conditions which can be changed and which by changing will very strongly tend to offset this loss in the hours of labor.

First. During the last quarter of a century since labor organizations began to demand a decrease in the hours of toil by workmen their employers have met this demand by the same argument which Mr. Elliott now advances. In fact, the manufacturers, who were usually the employers involved, had even a stronger case than the railroad managers, because the Legislature which proposed to reduce the hours of labor was always a State Legislature, and the manufacturer was able to say that to reduce the hours of labor in the factories of the State would result in handicapping the industries of the State in comparison with the industries of another State where no such law was in force.

This is always a serious argument for the State Legislature to consider. But the labor unions always met this argument with the contention that the human frame is like the soil; that the law of diminishing returns applies as forcibly to the workman's body as it does to the tilled fields; that the more intensely you work it the less in proportion you produce by it. They contended that by shortening the hours of labor you could speed up the workman and put more intelligence into his work, and, therefore, more economy and more productivity.

Nobody doubts that the labor organizations were right. The history of the shorter-hour legislation has proved it. Certainly there is a limit beyond which this rule will not apply, and the limit is not incommensurable; but we have not yet reached that limit. How far the rule will apply to the railroads is not certain. Probably the decrease in the hours of work will not be completely offset by the increase in the efficiency of the workmen. But it will have some effect. It will be one of the elements which will contribute to keep down the cost of operating railroads at the public expense.

Now, the railroads have not any such argument as the manufacturers in a State opposing a State law which would raise the standard of wages above the level of the standard of any other State, because this demand is upon ALL the railroads ALIKE, and is not giving any railroad an advantage over its competitor.

Second. Mr. Elliott assumes, naturally enough as a railroad manager, that the cost of operating a railroad in the other departments than labor will remain fixed and unchangeable. But Mr. Elliott assumes too much. It may remain fixed, but it is not unchangeable; and if it remains unchanged, it will be the fault of the railroad managers. There is a vast difference in the cost of production between a railroad operated as a railroad for the benefit of its stockholders and of the public, and a railroad operated as an instrument of stock speculation by stock gamblers in Wall Street, whose eyes are on the ticker and not on the trains ad freight houses.

Let us take, for example, this very railroad of which r. Elliott is president. The New Haven Railroad has within ten years lost, through waste, mismanagement and general lawlessness, from one hundred to two hundred million dollars. Now, that is part of the cost of operation under present business standards in the railroad world. The New Haven is not an exceptional but a typical case. The Boston & Maine has had the same history recently. So has the Chicago & Alton, which Harriman looted. So has the Rock Island and the St. Louis & San Francisco, the Missouri Pacific, the Santa Fe, the Union Pacific, and nearly all the railroads in the country.

They have been in bankruptcy several times, and huge profits have been made by those who put them in bankruptcy and who were given control of their reorganization. In the old days this mismanagement not only came out of the public ultimately, through an increase in the freight and passenger rates, but it used to come in the first instance out of the railroad employes themselves; for these wreckers of railroads, when their conspiracy was ripe, would apply to a friendly Federal judge—a scallawag whom they had put upon the bench—for the appointment of a receiver, and the judge would appoint one of the conspirators receiver to run the road during reorganization.

The first thing that Mr. Conspirator and Receiver always did was to reduce wages on the roads. Naturally, the railroad men struck, BUT TO STRIKE WAS TO BE IN CONTEMPT OF COURT, BECAUSE THE RECEIVER WAS AN OFFICER OF THE COURT. So the Federal judge would issue an injunction against the workmen who struck, because the reorganizers were trying to recoup the money which they had stolen out of the pockets of the workmen. If the leaders of the railroad men had the audacity to continue the strike, they were thrown into jail for contempt of court.

Fortunately public opinion has compelled the courts to stop this discreditable secret alliance with railroad looters, but unfortunately the legal principles upon which the courts operated have not yet been disavowed. We hope that Mr. Brandeis, when he takes his place on the Supreme Court bench, will help the court to disavow them, so that these things may not happen again, when the audacity of speculators rises to its old pitch.

Now, the New Haven Railroad has lost from one hundred to two hundred million dollars in a short period by aggrandizing schemes not unlike these in character. If that railroad were on its feet; if it had not lost this vast sum of money, and if it had not suffered the consequent loss of morale and efficiency, with their train of evils, the New Haven would be amply able to meet any increase in the cost of labor, through this demanded decrease in the hours of labor, out of its surplus prosperity. Therefore, another answer to Mr. Elliott's contention is that the railroads can change their methods; can operate a railroad as it was meant to be operated as a railroad, and not as the victim of unscrupulous speculators. Mr. Elliott is himself trying to do this very thing and is meeting with considerable success. Mr. Hustis and the Federal trustees are trying to do this very thing on the Boston & Maine, and are meeting with very great success. They have in a year converted a deficit into a surplus, and in a short time, if its condition improves in the ratio of last year, the Boston & Maine will be on its feet again merely by decent management.

Now, a change which will make it impossible for a repetition of these orgies of railroad speculation and wrecking will completely offset any increased cost of labor which may be involved in the demands of the railway employes, even if the increased efficiency of the labor does not help very much.

Doubtless Mr. Elliott will say that the railroad managers have learned their lesson; that the stockholders have been the most to suffer, and that these conditions will not return. But "when the devil is sick, the devil a monk would be, and when the devil is well, the devil a monk is he." These periods of dissipation, followed by periods of reaction, repentance and convalescence, have been the history of railroads since the first tie was laid on the first railroad. Unless the law makes these things impossible, either by a stringency of regulation, which we have never yet seen, or by public ownership and operation, then we may expect, just as soon as the railroad gets strong enough to stand another debauch, to see it fall into the hands of a new set of leeches, who will suck it again until it bleeds white.

Another condition which President Elliott assumes to be unchangeable is really not only susceptible of change, but the change, all intelligent men know, is coming rapidly. It is the evolutionary transition from private management of the railroads to public ownership.

This transition has already occurred in all the great nations of the world. The progressive countries of Europe and the only progressive communities of the East—Japan, Australia and New Zealand—have all taken the railroads away from their private management and made them great exclusive public instrumentalities—as they ought always to have been.

This change would very materially affect President Elliott's argument against a reduction in the hours of labor on the railroads. The Government is not concerned with profits, but only with the greatest good to the greatest number. The Government does not look to the movement by the day on the stock market, but to the development of a generation in the whole country.

None of the huge private fortunes, the illicit accumulation of which out of the railroads have made the operation of railroads so expensive under private management, will be piled up under public ownership. Of petty graft we may not hope to rid ourselves under public ownership, but it will never be HUGE graft running into tens of millions in single instances and stolen by single individuals. It will never be respectable graft. It will never be a badge of social distinction. It will never serve as the foundation of an influential family. It will never be even safe graft. The Bill Tweeds of New York and the Abe Ruefs of San Francisco, and their prototypes in Boston, Chicago and everywhere, will go to jail when they are caught. These petty grafters will even go to the electric chair when, as recently in New York, they are caught mixing graft with murder. For petty graft whole communities will not be debauched and defied. Whole railroad systems will not be wrecked.

With the leeching burden of private management, which puts private profit first and public service last, removed, we may expect the railroads to be easily able to give the employes an eight-hour day.

DAME FORTUNE had the jaundice once
Or maybe 'twas the gout;
At least she did some funny stunts
I cannot puzzle out.
She gave Bill Black a million cold
When his fat uncle croaked,
And keeps me hustling as of old,
To Labor's dump-cart yoked.

Bill Black is now a millionaire
As all the flunkies know;
He clamors for the "bill-o'-fare"
And calls the waiter "Bo."
He talks about "The play I seen
Wrote by that chap Mas-cagny."
He calls a dollar bill a "bean"
And calls champagne "cham-pagny."

It makes me shudder o'er and o'er;
He eats just like a vulture.
It hurts me to the very core
And jars my views of culture.
But though I have each little knack
To show I'm not a greeny,
The waiters hover 'round Bill Black
And let me run for Sweeny.

Play as Education

By Charles F. Thwing

President Western Reserve University

"THE games which we have taught the Filipinos," said the Director of Education in the Islands, "have done for them more than all the other civilizing influences which America has brought. Before we came to the Islands the boys practically had no games and no plays. They had some simple pastimes only. The girls had even less than their brothers. The games we have taught—a dozen or more in all—have brought these boys into their stronger and happier selves."

Such testimony has value for other parts of the world than the Philippine Islands. For plays and athletic games stand for great things in the development of character and of American life.

The game and play stand for teamwork. The ball game means five men, or nine men, or eleven men, working as one man. Each throws aside himself as a selfhood, putting that whole selfhood into the whole mass.

The game and the play also mean wholesome, inspiring rivalry. Rivalry gives zest, interest, sparkle to life. It means vigor, enlargement of power, energy.

Furthermore, games represent imagination. The player in advance sees what he wishes to gain. He also understands the method for reaching the goal. He has at once vision and pre-vision. Inspiration gives imagination, and imagination creates inspiration.

Make for Good Temper

Games also are an aid in getting on with people. They aid in the promotion of proper relationship with both associates and antagonists. Games mean freedom from cantankerousness. They promote adjustment of personality to personality.

Educated men who fail at all usually fail either because of a lack of moral backbone or because they cannot get on with other people. Playing of games is a training in getting on with everyone. Every man who succeeds is obliged to adjust his life to the morally lame, to the ethically halt and to the intellectually blind.

Without himself becoming feeble or near-sighted he has to relate himself properly to hard conditions. Adjusting himself to associates and to antagonists he is disciplined to the promotion of good fellowship.

Games are also a discipline in bearing life's defeats bravely and life's victories humbly. Such a training is of special value to the American youth. American youths are inclined to allow themselves to be flung by defeat into the blue depths of despair.

They are also usually free to permit themselves to be lifted by victory on the crests of advancing waves of exultation. Either mood is foolish. The result of the playing of games should be a training for sailing life's seas on an even keel.

A further value of games and of all plays is seen in the bearing of responsibility under the great law of liberty. Every game is more or less of a free game. Each player is obliged to make certain decisions, but this freedom is regulated by the laws of the game.

He is at once a king and a servant. Responsibility, liberty and law are represented in every game which is played. The game trains one for the responsibility and the liberty of life, and also for obedience to law. The game is a microcosm of life.

An Aid to Health

It should be added that all games and plays properly undertaken and carried forward are a minister to health. Health is a by-product of play, but it is a by-product which is of larger value than any direct result.

Of course, games in America and the Philippines may be so played as to augment evils. The evils of the under-valuation of the spiritual and the intellectual, of the overvaluation of the physical, of the elimination of life's serious purposes, of unwholesome antagonism and rivalry are evident enough. But, properly planned and properly played, all games represent the saner conditions and the safer and stronger forces of American life.

In-Shoots

To write a good obituary it is generally necessary to forget the main facts.

The bachelor minister who is not loaded to the brim with diplomacy is going to have a stormy time in any town.
